Red Grip Loosening

ON HIGHWAY 13, Vietnam (AP) — After 67 days, the seams of the North Vietnamese siege of An Loc are starting to burst.

A trickle of refugees began leaving the devastated province capital at dawn Monday when they heard the road south was open to civilians. This trickle soon became a flood of 10,000 people desperately scurrying over broken bridges, past bomb craters and burned-out vehicles, to government lines.

Alongside Highway 13 the forward elements of the South Vietnamese 21st Division, which has been trying for weeks to open the road, continued routing out dihard enemy infantrymen foot by foot from trenches and foxholes.

Inside the city, Vietnamese airborne troopers, who linked up last week with the embattled defenders, were probing gingerly at the last North Vietnamese strongpoints, particularly a rubber-processing plant where tanks and infantrymen are still dug in.

"The siege will be over when Route 13 is open," said the senior American adviser to the 21st Division, Col. J. Ross Franklin. "I know we have made many incorrect predictions in the past. But I feel we have a grip on it at last. Give us two, three more days, then we'll punch through."

The refugees who started out from An Loc at dawn got through anyway, covering the 12 miles from An Loc south to a fire base near Chon Thanh in about eight hours in the searing sun.

They were in a solid block on the highway about a mile long, mainly old men and women, with most of the women carrying babies. They were the color of the red earth of Binh Long Province, and one young wife, Pham Thi Nghia, told why.

"We lived 64 days in the bunkers," she said. "We left to go to the toilet, or to collect food from the airdrops. Otherwise, we stayed underground."

She said one enemy rocket scored a direct hit on her bunker and killed her mother and son, and two others. "I buried my mother and son in the bunker," she said tearfully.

Others shook their heads with fear when asked to tell about their ordeal in the besieged city.

A few young men were among the refugees, but most of the men had stayed behind with the government forces, had been killed, or were in North Vietnamese hands.

The airborne troops told the refugees to leave An Loc. Elderly Pham Thi Hue said, "A dozen North Vietnamese were on the road south of the city. They did not stop us. Near Tan Kai some rockets fell among us, wounding some. But we kept on going. We were desperate."

Col. Franklin said, "The refugees got through. That means we'll get through soon."

Kissinger Japan Trip

TOKYO (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger said Monday his three days of fence-mending talks in Japan were extremely valuable and pledged careful consideration of Japanese suggestions to improve strained relations.

Japanese officials questioned about Kissinger's 70-hour stay in Tokyo indicated the visit had helped soothe some of the bruised feelings in Japan caused by President Nixon's unilateral foreign policy departures.

"The visit was valuable not only because we had a chance to hear about U.S. policies," said a Foreign Ministry official, "but because it gave us an opportunity to question him."

Kissinger, Nixon's top foreign affairs aide, applied his talents as diplomat and foreign policy scholar during 30 hours of conversations with government leaders and industrial notables.

"All of this has been extremely valuable to me, together with a number of specific ideas which we will study with great care and attention when I return to the United States," he told newsmen before emplaning for Washington.

Among the suggestions he will examine is a possible Tokyo-Washington agreement to anticipate the kind of economic rises which have damaged relations between the two countries in recent months. He also promised future consultations with Japan on China.

Despite his prominence in the Nixon administration and his important role in framing Vietnam war policies, there were no leftist demonstrations of any importance during the discussions.

Paris Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — Prospects appeared bright Monday for an early resumption of the Vietnam peace talks, with the possibility of new suppleness in both the North Vietnamese and U.S. positions.

A French press report from Hanoi said North Vietnam's chief peace negotiator, Xuan Thuy, is returning soon to Paris with what Thuy was quoted as calling "new directives."

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter, returning to Paris after an absence of nearly a month, said: "We are going to keep trying" for a negotiated settlement to the war.

Speaking in conciliatory tones and referring to the report about Thuy, Porter said President Nixon "is intensely interested in arriving at some kind of negotiated settlement of the Vietnam problem. My return here at this time is an additional indication of his strong preference and hope that such a settlement can be achieved."

In Washington, State Department officials said Porter's remarks indicated that a signal the United States has said it wanted before it would return to peace talks may have arrived.

But later Charles W. Bray, the State Department spokesman, told Washington newsmen no signal had arrived from Hanoi and that the basis for Porter's optimism was the report that Thuy was coming back with new instructions.

Porter did not rule out attending a new session of the peace talks Thursday. But it appeared doubtful that the chief Communist delegates could be present by that time.

North Vietnamese officials here said there was no word from Hanoi when Thuy would arrive in Paris.

Flood Relief Work Begins
Hunt For Bodies Resumes

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Civil Defense officials changed the number of known dead from 208 to 175 Monday as rescue workers continued to search through debris and mud for more victims of the disastrous flood that hit this summer resort area on the weekend.

A Civil Defense spokesman said, however, the final toll was expected to surpass 200.

Pat Dixon, a state Civil Defense spokesman, announced the 175 figure. He said it did not include bodies taken to mortuaries after noon (MDT) Monday.

Duplication of reports from various county agencies and confusion in the disaster-struck city apparently caused earlier erroneous reports, officials said.

Civil Defense officials had placed the count at 208 Sunday.

"We're not just dealing with statistics at this point, the count will continue to rise," Maj. Gen. Duane L. Corning, commander of the South Dakota National Guard, said. "Guardsmen have been finding bodies all day. It will continue for days and days."

Several hundred other persons were missing and thousands left homeless in the flooding Friday night and early Saturday.

The death toll includes three National Guardsmen.

The water supply remained off for the third day, prohibiting bathing and making plumbing facilities inoperable. Drinking water was trucked from Ellsworth Air Force Base and nearby communities. A well was reported dry at Custer, one of the towns supplying water to Rapid City's 43,000 residents.

Typhoid and tetanus inoculations were given to hundreds of persons swamped and injured by flood waters.

Natural gas remained off but telephone and electric service were normal.

The Army Corps of Engineers reported a new problem developing in Sturgis, 25 miles north of Rapid City. Engineers said a dam built in 1903 was in danger of bursting. Pumps were installed to relieve pressure on the dam holding back 22 million gallons of water.

Robert Finch, President Nixon's adviser on relief and volunteer work, toured the flood areas for an hour by helicopter Monday and later told newsmen, "It was an act of God that the National Guard happened to be in camp here when this happened."

Finch said he would report directly to the President and urge that the nation contribute through the Red Cross to provide "the short-term funds needed for housekeeping, food and shelter."

Gov. Richard Kneip and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., visited Rapid City Sunday.

Flooded Area
Site Of Mud

KEYSTONE, S.D. (AP) — Last year, says Ed Hayes, who works at the information booth on the road to Mount Rushmore, more than two million tourists passed through Keystone.

On Monday, if they had been able to get through the police blockades, all the tourists would have seen was rubble, mud, and a lot of hard work.

To get to Keystone, you drive 20 miles on U.S. 16 from Rapid City, past the Reptile Garden, the Horseless Carriage Museum, Gravity Hill, the Sitting Bull Crystal Cave, and a dozen other way stations designed to get Junior to say, "Daddy, stop."

Keystone, year-round population 150 or 250—depending on whom you talk to—is more of the same. But it's subdued, nestled on either side of the point where the Grizzly and Battle creeks run together and surrounded by the wooded slopes and grassy knolls of the Black Hills.

There were people killed at Keystone early Saturday morning, when the creeks ran wild. There are 13 dead they know about and a lot more, they suspect, among people who were camping in woods above the town, about 3½ miles below Mount Rushmore.

"There could be 50 to 60 dead," says 32-year-old Jim Kent, who built the Four Presidents Motel by himself.

"In Rapid they know who the people are, they're all local. Up here, they're mostly tourists."

Panel, HEW Differ
On Bill's Pricetag

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee Monday listed the annual cost of its Social Security-welfare reform bill at $17.6 billion but Nixon administration specialists said this was understated by $6.5 billion.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said his panel could give a final total because it has completed work on new benefits although it has not yet figured out how to pay for all of them.

The committee members struggled Monday with new tax formulas to pay for the increased Social Security benefits but finally put over the decision until Tuesday.

The committee estimates that its bill contains $10.4 billion worth of boosts in Social Security benefits and $7.2 billion of increases in welfare costs.

The biggest Social Security item, a 10 per cent across-the-board increase in all monthly cash payments, would cost an estimated $4.3 billion.

The Senate is almost certain to raise this to 20 per cent in floor debate, since 64 of its 100 members have said they favor the higher figure. If this is done, it would hike the cost another $4.3 billion.

The committee estimated the yearly cost of the welfare provisions in its bill at $7.2 billion. Of this, $2.2 billion would go to adult programs for the aged, blind and disabled and $5 billion to the new program for (Turn To Page Six)

Lavelle Confirms
Reported Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ousted air commander John D. Lavelle confirmed Monday he ordered unauthorized strikes against North Vietnamese airfields, missiles and artillery last winter in "trying to stop the buildup" for Hanoi's invasion of the South.

Retired Maj. Gen. Lavelle told the House Armed Services investigating subcommittee continuation of the strikes could not have prevented the offensive but "they could have made it more costly."

Lavelle said he ordered the strikes begun in January halted March 10 after he learned false reports on three of the missions had been sent to higher headquarters and he saw no way to continue the strikes without further inaccurate reports.

Lavelle said he ordered the strikes after his pilots saw and photographed a five-month buildup of Soviet-built MIG jet fighters at three airfields just across the demilitarized zone, along with SAM missile sites, heavy 133-millimeter artillery guns, antiaircraft guns and tanks.

He said he asked Gen. Creighton Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, for permission for the strikes and said he knows it was sent in writing to Washington but said the only reply was for him to prepare a plan for such strikes.

Needy Assured Legal
Help By High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — All defendants facing a possible jail sentence are entitled to have a lawyer represent them at the trial, the Supreme Court ruled Monday.

The 7-2 decision delivered by Justice William O. Douglas guarantees legal aid to millions of poor people and will alter courtroom practices in more than half the states, where trial lawyers now are supplied only for the more serious crimes.

Unless the defendant is offered a lawyer and specifically turns one down he may not be imprisoned, Douglas said.

The Supreme Court in 1963 first ruled that defendants charged with serious crimes must be provided with a lawyer for their trials if they could not afford one of their own.

Douglas' opinion extended that decision to wipe out the distinction between felonies and misdemeanors and petty offenses so far as the right to counsel is concerned.

"The requirement of counsel may well be necessary for fair trial even in a petty offense prosecution," Douglas said. His opinion was supported fully by all members of the court except Justices Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist.

In a second ruling, the court upheld by a 6 to 3 vote the exclusion of Negroes as guests at a Moose Lodge in Harrisburg, Pa. The decision, delivered by Justice William H. Rehnquist, ran counter to past rulings that helped break down racial barriers in parks, swimming pools, hotels and restaurants.

K. Leroy Irvis, a black who is the majority leader of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, had argued in a suit that the lodge was required to serve all guests, regardless of their race, because it held a state liquor license.

A three-judge federal court in Harrisburg agreed with the Pittsburgh Democrat in 1970 and gave the all-white lodge the (Turn To Page Six)

Chain Of Explosions
Strung Across North

SAIGON (AP) — Fuel fires and ammunition explosions roared across a wide area of North Vietnam after U.S. warplanes picked off targets stripped bare by previous bombings, the U.S. Command reported Monday.

An orange fireball, five football fields in diameter, marked the spot where waves of Air Force Phantom jets demolished 60 rail cars stranded northeast of Hanoi and 25 miles below the Chinese border. Air Force and Navy fliers claimed touching off 27 secondary explosions and 25 fires in the raids Sunday aimed at preventing war materials from reaching enemy forces in South Vietnam.

Communist China said the American air strikes near its border with North Vietnam were "threatening the security of China." The Foreign Ministry, in a statement broadcast by the New China News Agency from Peking, claimed "these frenzied acts of aggression" are not only "new war crimes" against North Vietnam but also "grave provocations against the Chinese people."

The U.S. Command reported Air Force, Navy, and Marine fighter-bombers flew more than 280 strikes over North Vietnam on Sunday.

About 20 Air Force Phantoms pounded the northeast rail line to China, leaving a 10-mile stretch of the tracks in flames and destroying the string of freight cars. Many of the cars were said to be loaded with war materials from China, and the explosions and fires indicated they contained ammunition and fuel.

The command said the U.S. raids also destroyed or damaged three bridges, 20 trucks, five barges, 50 supply boats and 14 warehouses in North Vietnam.

Two Navy Phantoms from the carrier Coral Sea also shot down a pair of slow-moving MIG17 jets 26 miles south of Hanoi, the 36th and 37th MIGs downed this year, the command reported.

The Phantoms returned safely but a Navy A6 jet was lost Sunday 45 miles south of Hanoi and its two crewmen were reported missing. A dispatch from Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency claimed another U.S. warplane was downed Monday north of Hanoi.

Two light observation helicopters were downed over North Vietnam, below Hanoi, on Sunday and four crewmen were listed as missing. Seventy-three American planes and 49 helicopters have been reported downed since the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30. Sixty-eight fliers are listed as killed and 120 as missing.

Little significant ground action was reported in the South, where high-ranking officers say there is no evidence the enemy is short on supplies despite the air strikes and the mining of North Vietnamese harbors.

'Real' Reason For Losing In Viet

Here it is, the "real" reason the United States failed to defeat the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong:

The "real" reason is that U.S. fighting men in Vietnam were handicapped by "exotic weapons, gimmicks and poor leadership."

The charge is made by Col. David H. Hackworth, U.S. Army (Ret.) in an article, "Our Vietnam Goof," in the June Popular Mechanics magazine.

The military is usually accused of fighting the current war with the previous war's weapons and strategies. In a switch, Hackworth says that GIs in Vietnam would have been better off using some of the weapons of the Korean war.

He ticks off a whole list of things on which billions were wasted, from the M-16 rifle—"as light as a BB gun and about as effective in the jungles of Southeast Asia"—to the M-551 Sheridan tank—"disastrous for the men who had to use it."

He charges that Army leaders are almost completely preoccupied with the development of hardware that will automate warfare and replace the man who carries the rifle.

He writes that he saw colonels and generals pour into Vietnam merely to get the needed "credentials" for that next promotion, spending only six months in the field and another six behind a desk in Saigon.

"They never learned what the conflict was about, or how to fight it."

(But who, military or civilian, ever did know what the Vietnam conflict was about, much less how to fight—and end—it?)

Because of deep differences with senior officers and a conviction that the Army had failed the American public, Hackworth, described as the most highly decorated officer in the Army, retired voluntarily last year after 25 years' service.

Since he spent five years in Southeast Asia as an infantry brigade officer and battalion commander and adviser to Vietnamese units, it must be a case of having been too close to the trees to see the forest.

No doubt in a narrow, tactical sense much of what Hackworth says is true. If American lives were needlessly lost in jungle firefights because of the Army's fascination with exotic weaponry and electronic gimmickry, he has a right to be bitter.

But can anyone seriously believe that a better rifle or a better tank or a better uniform or helmet or even better leadership would have made much difference in Vietnam?

(The argument is reminiscent of that of another officer who a few years ago charged that the Army in Vietnam was overmechanized and suggested bringing back the mule to defeat the guerrillas.)

America's "goof" was not sending men into battle with the wrong weapons. It was hardly an insufficiency of firepower and a failure to kill enough enemy soldiers. It was not a case of being outfought in the field.

As Hackworth himself says, in Vietnam "we are pitted against a fanatically dedicated opponent who would take on tanks, if necessary, armed only with bow and arrow. We have flattened jungles and mountains only to discover this is far easier than destroying a courageous, determined enemy."

(Now, however, the North Vietnamese are not without their own tanks.)

It is the absence of a similar dedication on the part of the South Vietnamese, compounded by the inability of the United States to invade and conquer North Vietnam out of fear of starting World War III—thus our acceptance of what one writer has called "voluntary defeat"—that are responsible for the 200-billion-dollar, 55-thousand-death "goof" in Vietnam.

Lumps In Federal Gravy

According to the Tax Foundation, a nonprofit research organization that keeps tabs on government spending, more money was collected in federal taxes in 21 states in the last fiscal year than was returned to them in the form of federal grants.

In a typical county in Ohio, for instance, every dollar that came from Washington for welfare, education, health, housing highways, urban renewal, etc., actually cost the local taxpayers $1.55.

At the same time, of course, 29 other states received more in federal aid than they paid in federal taxes. In other words, money from the wealthier states is distributed to the less wealthy, which is only right. This is, after all, one country.

But would it not possibly make more sense if that Ohio county were permitted to keep its dollar and send only the 55 cents to Washington? Likewise all other counties in the same taxes-vs.-benefits situation?

Think of the dollar loss due to "friction" as money is shuttled back and forth between the states and the federal government.

Ah, but then think of all the federal jobs that would be lost if things were simplified, and start dreaming about something else.

A GLANCE Into The Past

A grade cow owned by E. J. Mau of Ashland really startled everybody Monday by giving birth to three fine calves, all heifers. Mother and triplets are doing fine.

The old and uneven stone floor in the main corridor of the county courthouse is being removed and will be replaced by a new terrazzo floor.

Bids for building the White Hall high school were opened Tuesday. The figures ran from a low of $74,000 to a high of $94,000. The first quotation was considerably higher than the architect's estimate.

BERRY'S WORLD

"We, in Washington, see prosperity just around the corner for the family farm. All you have to do is survive until the suburbs reach you, and you'll make a fortune in real estate!"

By JOHN HALL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Something is bothering American voters this year, fundamentally.

In West Virginia, Ken Hechler loses his House seat to redistricting, runs in a new district against the incumbent Kee family that has held the seat for 40 years, and wins easily even though he advocates a ban on strip mining, in a state dependent on coal.

Old hands like Sen. R. Everett Jordan D-N.C., and former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., drop like flies in primaries against callow newcomers. An 81-year-old House committee chairman, George Miller, is retired in California by a 41-year-old banker. Even Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., runs scared in a state where political fright is measured by getting only 70 per cent of the vote.

Some of these are aberrations, of course. A lot of old politicians and establishment types are running this year in the usual manner, and winning. You just don't hear much about them.

A "Coalition"

A "coalition of the aggrieved" seems to have formed composed of everyone who has lost a job or knows someone who has; everyone who has gotten skinned by the friendly used car man; everyone who has watched a favorite stream or hillside succumb to progress; everyone who has watched a child board a bus to a distant school for a purpose unrelated to his own education; in short, everyone who is burned up about something.

Last Tuesday, on the day of the California primary, Mrs. Jeanette Osborne of Atlanta, Ga., went before a Senate subcommittee to describe how she and her husband, just "average people," tried to cope with the human tragedy that befell them.

By "God's will," she said,

three of her four children died in succession—one in an automobile accident, a second of bone cancer and a third of leukemia.

She said she did not come for sympathy, but only to tell how two people with good jobs who were determined "not to beg"

struggled to pay thousands of dollars in medical bills for eight years, the father working and the mother quitting her job for endless days and nights with her dying children in the hospital until she, too, finally was forced to return to work to keep the family from going under.

Insurance Deal Cited

Mrs. Osborne said an insurance agent approached her before her oldest son was buried and gave her $3,000 in exchange for a signed promise not to sue the driver of the car in which he was killed. That $3,000 was used a year later to pay the medical bills of her dead daughter that were not covered by the standard group hospitalization policies she and her husband had.

Only a few minutes before,

the President of an insurance company which widely advertises its "supplemental" coverage

for extra money while a person is hospitalized was trying to explain how it was that 40 per cent of the claims filed over a two-year period were rejected.

Perhaps all of this has nothing to do with the political climate of the 1972 campaign. Perhaps the reporter who was assigned to cover the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee on the day of the California primary had some pre-existing thoughts and was trying to relate two unrelated episodes.

But it is difficult to escape the conclusion that voters this year are just not happy with the way things are and have not quite decided what it is they want done.

Summit Crucial To Brezhnev Aims

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Information trickling here from Moscow indicates President Nixon's visit was crucial to Leonid Brezhnev's drive for absolute power within the Politburo of the Communist party and the government of the Soviet Union.

This was apparently one major reason that Brezhnev would not let anything—the mining of Haiphong harbor or pressures within the Communist world—prevent the Nixon meetings from taking place.

The Nixon summit session and its preliminaries have already enabled Brezhnev to goad P. Ye. Shelest, one of his four principal rivals, into an opposition so strong and so unacceptable by Politburo standards that Brezhnev was able to oust him as First Secretary of the Ukrainian Communist party, one of the most powerful posts in the U.S.S.R., and to put in his own man, V. V. Shcherbitsky. Thus Shelest's power base is gone, weakening seriously the anti-Brezhnev group.

The demolition of Shelest was step three in Brezhnev's four-stage program for pulling the fangs of the four men most likely to block his move toward one-man rule or to attempt a takeover on their own.

Brezhnev already had been successful in removing G. I. Voronov as head of the Russian Republic and Aleksander Shelep as a Communist party secretary, leaving only Nikolai Podgorny, president of the U.S.S.R., with dangerous strength. While these rivals remain as members of the Politburo, Voronov, Shelep and now Shelest have each lost his primary source of strength.

At last report, Shelep had been moved from seventh to 11th place in the 15-man Politburo, Boronov down from fifth to 10th place.

Podgorny held firmly to the number two spot, up actually from a few years back.

Where Shelest now ranks is not yet clear, but he is undoubtedly close to the bottom of the Politburo ranking.

The U.S. Economic aid and trade concessions, if they come through as anticipated, will enable Brezhnev to move in with more solid power over the economic ministries. These operations in theory should be in the hands of Aleksei Kosygin, as head of the government.

But Brezhnev had previously taken steps to increase the power of the party men directly in industry and agriculture. The increase in party direct management, of course, gave more power to Brezhnev, as First Secretary of the Communist party of the U.S.S.R.

The economic deals, when they come through, should also enable Brezhnev to avoid the economic crises—which led to Khrushchev's fall.

The prestige given Brezhnev by his arms deal, by West German recognition of crucial East European borders and the rising prospect for some American withdrawals in Europe, coupled with the demolition of Shelest and the others, will enable Brezhnev to expand considerably the careful party purge he has been carrying on—removing the protégés of his rivals down the ladder and putting in his own men in critical areas.

What this growing Brezhnev power will mean for the United States is not clear. With less rivalry, the theory is that he could have more strength to move toward settling outstanding issues with the West. Or he could make bold moves not at all to our liking. Only time will tell.

Bets Well Organized

Life Is Deadly Dull

Dear Ann Landers: May I reply to the woman who has no guest bed and only love seats in the living room to make sure nobody sleeps overnight in her home?

I must say the old sourpuss is missing a lot. One of the happiest weeks of my life was when I had eight house guests plus my own family of five. We slept on the floor, on army cots and in a hammock on the porch. We ate in shifts and it was sheer bedlam. But what a wonderful time we had. It was a party, around the clock, with everyone pitching in. The house was filled with laughter. There wasn't a single complaint.

That woman with no extra bed will never have such wonderful fun—or such memories. I'll bet her well organized life is deadly dull and I can imagine what her friends and relatives think of her.—Open-Hearted in Plainfield

Dear Open: You make it sound easy—but not all guests can be put on the floor, or in a hammock, or counted on to pitch in. I have childhood memories of sleeping on the floor when our house was filled with company and it was great fun—for us kids. But it was my dear mother who did all the work.

Dear Ann Landers: When I read that letter from the seventh grader who complained because his teacher ate popcorn while she talked over the amplifying system (the crunching drove the kids crazy), I knew I had to write. The student stated rather casually, "There are 72 kids in our class and the teacher has a hard time controlling them."

Wake up, America! Where in the blankety-blank is your tax dollar going? Why does a teacher have 72 students in her class? Twelve-year-olds deserve a better deal than that.

When the school referendum shows up on the ballot do you vote yes or do you vote no and gripe about taxes? Has the money already been appropriated, and is it being misused or diverted? Make it your business to find out.

Some of our school buildings should be condemned and rebuilt. Too many classrooms have 20-year-old text books, inadequate supplies and old, beat-up audio-visual aids. Thousands of teachers have been laid off and are collecting unemployment compensation or taking clerking or office jobs. Why? Because the Boards of Education can't pay them? What goes on in YOUR community? Learn the facts. Then complain to the Mayor or the City Manager, the Board of Education and the City Council.

Next, let your Congressman and Senators in Washington know that you want less money spent on the military, the space programs, foreign aid and beautification and more spent on education for our children. Let them know that if they don't vote the way you want them to, they won't get re-elected.—Mad

Dear Mad: Bravo! Right on! Cheers! Thanks for writing!

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 14-year-old girl who doesn't know what to do about her seven-year-old sister. There's going to be a talent contest soon and she wants to be in it. This would be great if she had talent. The poor kid thinks she can sing.

When I was in the fourth grade I thought I could sing, too. I remember getting up in a school assembly and making a big fool of myself. I don't want it to happen to my sister. She's been rehearsing for the past week and it's pretty gross. Mom says to leave her alone—that some people have to learn the hard way. I hate to see her suffer like I did. Please Ann, how can I help her?—Big Sister

Dear Sis: Leave her alone. Some people have to learn the hard way.

Law For Today

Q. In our town riding bicycles against the flow of traffic is commonplace. Is this legal? Also does a bicycle have to have a light at night?

A. Illinois law requires bicyclists to follow the same traffic rules and regulations as all vehicles, which means you must ride on the right side of the street with the flow of traffic. The law also states that, when ridden at night, a bicycle must have both a front light and rear reflector. The light must be visible from at least 500 feet from in front of the bicycle and the reflector must be of a type approved by the Secretary of State. A red light visible from 500 feet to the rear can be used instead of a reflector.

Thoughts

For in this hope we were saved. Now hope that is seen is not hope. For who hopes for what he sees? But if we hope for what we do not see, we wait for it with patience.—Romans 8:24, 25.

If you have built castles in the air, your work need not be lost; that is where they should be. Now put foundations under them.—Henry David Thoreau, naturalist.

Little Jinks

Look, look, mother! The children are home early today. Good morning, Dick. Good morning, Jane. Good grief! It's the last day of school!

See mother? Mother is drinking coffee. Mother thought she was going out to lunch today. Now she can stay home and have peanut butter sandwiches. Lucky, lucky mother!

Oh, listen. What is mother saying? She is saying, "I thought you were in school. WHERE YOU BELONG!"

Run back to school, Dick. Run back to school, Jane. Run, run, run. Maybe you can get there before they lock the doors. Run, run. Run inside the school and hide. Maybe they will lock the doors while you are hiding.

Isn't that a funny joke? Jokes are fun! Maybe you can play a joke on your teacher. Get back to school before your teacher leaves for the summer. See the blue car? It is the teacher's blue car. Ride in the car! The teacher will not see you until she parks in her driveway. Then you can jump up and say "surprise!"

Won't she be surprised? If she is so surprised she falls down she is not playing a joke on you. She has had a heart attack. Call a doctor and tell him the address. (Not your address.)

Jokes are fun. If you play this sort of joke often you get a surprise. You get to go to a special school. It is called Reform School.

Mother is playing a joke on you when she tells you to hide in the teacher's car. Mothers like jokes. Play a joke on mother!

Call mother to her bedroom. Tell her to get into bed. Hand her a book and say you want her to pretend she is sick and that you are a nurse.

Now it is time for the joke. Once mother is in bed, run out of the room. Slam the door and

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA WILDER

TUESDAY, JUNE 13 — Born today, you have an explosive temperament that at times may prove a real drawback to your success. One of those persons who meets every situation and circumstance better when he has a friend or loved one at his side, you would do well not to enter upon any career—or hobby either, for that matter—that would require you to spend considerable spans of time alone. Make friends with your co-workers and you will make friends with your job—but if you fail to make friends with those who work with or for you, you will very likely also fail in your job.

Quick to take advantage of whatever opportunity comes your way, you may be inclined to leap before you look. Assuming that every rainbow has a pot of gold at the end of it, you may quite often be disappointed to find after putting forth considerable time, money, and effort, that the gold you come upon is merely tinsel. It does not seem to be in your nature to learn much from your mistakes however and you may therefore travel the same profitless road many, many times.

Because of your inclination to ride an emotional elevator, to be elated one moment and depressed the next, it is extremely important that you learn to concentrate so well that you can shut from your mind all else but that upon which you are to focus. You have every chance of attaining the success your talents deserve—but only if you are able to keep distractions at bay.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Wednesday, June 14

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — You may experience some difficulty this morning settling down to work. An attraction to a member of the opposite sex may cause problems.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Allow yourself full rein where original ideas are concerned. Your constructive criticism of another's work yields gratitude.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Take care that your own procedure does not contain the same faults as those you have lately criticized. Don't be afraid to experiment, however.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Make an effort to see through the behavior of another to the motive behind it. You may find that things are not as bad as you think.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Your own duality of character may make it difficult for you to come to terms with new responsibilities. Concern yourself with problems of the young.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — A day when you must be able to turn out work under pressure. If you can't, you would be wise to turn your attention to other things.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Since it would be impossible to cover completely your involvement in recent activities that have angered another, make a clean breast of things.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) — Analyze your problem thoroughly before you attempt to solve it. Take full advantage of another's experience along the same lines.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — You might be wise to choose some alternate course of action than your usual today. A good time for trying new ways, new degrees of effort.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — A sleepy day—but underneath the slow pace there lie opportunities such as you least expect. Look to past experience for the key to success.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Indulge another's whims, especially where the very young and the aged are concerned. Don't take a seeming insult to heart; you may be mistaken about it.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Don't allow another's apparent easy-going nature fool you. To cross him or her at this time might be to bring considerable trouble down upon your head.

AREA MAN LODGED IN COUNTY JAIL

An area young man is lodged in the Morgan County jail on a pair of charges stemming from an incident in downtown Jacksonville late last week.

James Miller, 18, of route one, Murrayville, turned himself in at the county jail around 2:15 p.m. Sunday and is being held in lieu of $5,000 bond on charges of battery and theft. Warrants against Miller and three other persons were signed by Jacksonville police last Friday.

The charges result from the alleged robbery last Thursday morning of 24-year-old Ross Thomas of Jacksonville and White Hall. Thomas claims he was beaten and robbed on the public square. He received hospital treatment for apparent minor injuries.

Earlier Sunday, a relative of Miller's was taken to the county jail by city police. That person is identified as a 16-year-old boy who is also being held in lieu of bond. It is not known if he is being held for the same charges.

Speed Reading Course To Begin In Jacksonville Area

Arrangements have been made to conduct a 21-hour course in speed reading. The course is open to anyone above the age of 13 and guarantees every graduate a reading speed over 1,000 words per minute and with at least 15 per cent increase in comprehension.

After the seven week program a person can read any average length book in less than an hour and understand it better. In addition to speed reading the course also emphasizes improved study techniques, better test taking skills, and increased concentration and retention abilities.

The course requires a person to attend one class per week on the evening of their choice. For those who would like more information, without obligation to enroll, a series of FREE one-hour orientation lectures have been scheduled.

These meetings are free to the public and the course will be explained in complete detail including entrance requirements, classroom procedures, tuition, class schedule and location. You need to attend only one of the meetings whichever is most convenient for you. These free one-hour orientations will be held as follows:

Thursday, June 15, 7:00 p.m.;
Friday, June 16, 7:00 p.m.;
Saturday, June 17, 10:30 a.m.;
and a final meeting June 17, at 2:00 p.m. Meetings will be held at the YMCA. (ADV.)

CLOTHES CARE TODAY

By RUTH E. HOWARD

Organization. Organize yourself for each day's activities. It takes only a few minutes every night, but often makes the difference between giving an impression of thrown-together carelessness or a look of perfection. A mad scramble in the morning, wildly pulling things out and dressing like a house on fire will get you nothing but high blood pressure. And speaking of a house on fire, who ever heard of a fireman not laying his clothes out before going to bed? He jumps in to them and slides down the pole. You might not be able to match him in speed, but you can arrive at the office every morning calm, cool, collected and on time. A good way, by the way, to keep from being fired.

How do you do it? First, review what your next day's activities are going to be. Business before pleasure of course, but consider also your lunch date, cocktail date and dinner date, if any. Pick the basic dress or suit or costume that you will work for all three. Lay out the shoes, handbag, hosiery, jewelry—everything you need for the complete office look. If there's any doubt how the costume fits you or the length of the skirt, try it on to make sure. It's better to switch the night before than to start all over in the morning.

If you have after-hours activities on that day, select something right for the office that can be dressed-up for your date. It is amazing what a piece of jewelry can do for a simple suit or dress. Carry with you a hat that will give the outfit an outgoing and sophisticated look. The extras will all fit neatly in your hatbox or tote bag, so you can switch on the glamour after five. HOWARD'S, 121 S. EAST ST., PHONE 245-2215 can get you organized with all our services for your clothes. For instance, let's store those winter clothes now that spring is in the air. We have the largest plant in the area and we can help you achieve that all together look. So let us pick up your clothes and deliver them to you fresh for free!

Dairy Man Backs Low-Fat Milk

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read your column stressing the importance of 1 per cent low-fat milk to provide calcium the body needs and that we do not need the animal fat in our present-day diets. I am the vice-president of a dairy company. Having had open heart surgery at the Mayo Clinic a year and a half ago to alleviate blocked arteries to the heart caused by eating foods high in cholesterol and fat, I have attempted to interest all our management personnel and sales people in the importance of 1 per cent low-fat milk in the diet. As a result, we are in the midst of a big promotion of low-fat milk. I want to thank you for your support for low-fat dairy products.

Dear Reader — I am putting your nice letter in the column because it is a fine example of positive leadership. As vice-president of a large dairy company in Minnesota, you are certainly representative of the forward-thinking policy of much of the modern dairy industry. The provision of low-fat products, such as fortified skim milk and the 1 per cent low-fat milk, plus the uncreamed cottage cheese, has provided the American public with an opportunity to have essential nutritious food values obtained from milk without the problems associated with saturated fat.

Such forward-thinking as you exemplify also insures the probability that the dairy industry will be able to increase the market and help to improve the health of the American public. Satisfied customers promote good business. The provision of all these products by forward-thinking dairy leaders such as yourself is certainly good business, since it results in a lot of satisfied customers who may live longer and use more low-fat milk.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am having a water softener installed in my mobile home, but first I would like to have your opinion. The drinking water would be filtered through salt pellets. Would this water be harmful in any way to a person's health? I have had high blood pressure in the past and I am 64 years old and drink four to five glasses of water a day and would appreciate learning if drinking water from a softener would cause any trouble.

Dear Reader — For people in normal health, water passing through the type of water softener you are describing would not be harmful. They can be harmful for individuals who have any tendency toward retention of fluid or need to restrict the salt in their diet for this reason or for high blood pressure.

Water is often a hidden source of excess salt or sodium. Most commercial water supplies have a minimal amount of salt or sodium in them, but some have more than desirable for individuals with medical problems. For the person who has to severely restrict his sodium or salt intake, it might be wise to use bottled distilled water unless you know for certain from your city water department what the sodium content of your water is and your doctor assures you that it is acceptable for your diet.

Individuals who have high blood pressure are usually well-advised not to use excess amounts of salt.

FAMILY DINNER
Spaghetti Beef Casserole
SPAGHETTI BEEF
CASSEROLE

A savory offering.
1 package (8 ounces) thin spaghetti
1 tablespoon butter
1-3rd cup finely chopped onion
1 pound lean ground beef
1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon chili powder
1/4 teaspoon paprika
3/4 cup grated (medium-fine) cheddar cheese
Cook spaghetti according to package directions and drain. In a 10-inch skillet melt the butter; add onion and cook gently until tender; add beef and crumble with a fork until meat loses its red color. Stir in undrained tomatoes, undiluted tomato paste, salt, chili powder and paprika. Mix spaghetti, meat mixture and 1/2 cup of the cheese. Turn into a greased 1 1/2-quart round glass casserole (7 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) or similar utensil. Sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup cheese. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until hot through—20 to 30 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

DEAR POLLY—Karen can use her grandmother's vase which she mended with glue if she pours melted paraffin inside the vase and then rotates it until the inside is

DEAR POLLY—Karen could set a plastic bottle or container inside her mended herringbone vase and use it again for its intended purpose. The top of the plastic liner can be trimmed to the desired height with a paring knife and waterproofing the inside will not be necessary.

DEAR POLLY—I save old umbrellas just for their ribs as they make excellent and lasting supports for trailing flowers. I paint the ribs a soft blue-green and these "trellises" are scarcely noticeable in the garden.—MRS. O.H.

DEAR POLLY—Being a new mother put me on an even tighter budget and living in a trailer house has made me very space conscious. My little one who eats at the table needed a high chair so I solved all three problems by placing baby's car seat in a chair, strapping the belt to the chair back and having a secure, economical and space saving high chair.—C.H.

To Casino Conspirators

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Attorneys for seven defendants convicted of conspiring to obtain secret ownership of a Las Vegas, Nev., hotel-casino for "skimming" purposes argued unsuccessfully Monday for a new trial.

U.S. District Court Judge David Williams ruled that the defendants—six individuals and a Buffalo, N.Y., corporation—had been fairly treated during their 10-week trial.

ness attended the conduct of this trial" or that the government—as the defense contended—used "hanky-panky" to illicit testimony favorable to the conviction, Williams said.

Still to be taken up was another defense motion claiming the government had illegally employed telephone wiretapping to gain evidence against the defendants.

Counsel for the defendants, asking Williams to overturn the conspiracy verdict returned last April, contended among other things that:

—The government kept secret its plan to recommend favorable treatment for a key witness serving a prison term in connection with an unrelated card-cheating case.

—The mention of the word Mafia in connection with one of the defendants, Michael Santo Polizzi, 47, of Grosse Pointe Shores, Mich., prejudiced the jury.

Polizzi, owner of Detroit Die Cast and Faucet Co., and another defendant—Anthony Joseph Zerilli, 44, president of Hazel Park Racing Association of Detroit—were described by the U.S. attorney general in 1969 as underbosses of a Detroit Mafia family.

Zerilli and Polizzi and five other defendants were convicted of violating federal racketeering laws by conspiring to gain hidden ownership of the Las Vegas Frontier in 1967. The hotel was later sold to billionaire industrialist Howard Hughes.

During the trial the government claimed that $225,000 disappeared from the hotel's casino in what was described as an illegal skimming operation by the defendants. Skimming, in gambling circles, is the hiding of a portion of casino profits to avoid payment of taxes.

Also convicted were Peter

James Bellanca, 37, a Detroit attorney; Jack S. Shapiro, 37, of Detroit, former manager of the Frontier; Anthony Giardano, 57, of St. Louis; Arthur J. Rooks, 68, former Michigan municipal judge, and the Emprise Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y., operator of concessions at various race tracks and sports stadiums.

The key government witness during the trial was Maurice H. Friedman, developer of the Frontier, now serving a prison term in a card-cheating case.

The government produced a tape-recording during the trial in which Friedman was quoted as saying "everything is going to come out" regarding "the true state of affairs at the hotel...the hidden interests."

Under Nevada law, persons with out-of-state gambling operations cannot be licensed as casino operators.

The government presented evidence designed to show that Shapiro, Bellanca and Rooks acted as "front men" to cover up the ownership of Zerilli, Polizzi, Giardano and Emprise in the hotel casino.

Cola Firm Hopes Pepsi Generation Goes For Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of Pepsi Cola and the political committee of the nation's largest stock brokerage firm lead the list of publicly reported contributors to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

But the names of hundreds of other wealthy backers who may have kicked in far more remain buried from public view in the files of the Washington-based Finance Committee to Re-elect the President. Committee officials have said they never will be released.

Contributions of $15,000 apiece from Pepsi President Donald M. Kendall and the Effective Government Association of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith were the largest Nixon donations listed in reports to the General Accounting Office.

The reports were the first quarterly accounting of contributions and spending required under a new federal elections law that went into effect April 7.

They cover the period from April 7 through May 31 and were required of all political committees expecting to spend or actually spending more than $1,000 in behalf of a candidate for federal office.

The reports, filed Saturday but not available for inspection until Monday, confirmed what almost everybody expected—that the Republicans are heading into the fall campaign with coffers bulging while the Democrats have been staggered by primary spending.

The Finance Committee to Re-elect the President and three satellite committees operating under the chairmanship of former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans have collected some $10 million, about a third of what Nixon expects to raise and spend.

providing adequate safe poles and for their own equipment on the pole.

Cancel Debt

The council approved a resolution which in effect cancels a debt to the general fund for a loan to the sewer department in the amount of $55,367.50. It was pointed out that the loan could not be repaid because of the "lower than proposed" rate structure initiated and approved by the council. The funds could be returned within several years if necessary.

Alderman Larry Evans, chairman of the sewer committee said he would ask that the bid received on the Jones Street lift station be rejected. He said the cost of the project was "too high." The council approved.

The council approved the Freesen subdivision, just north of the VW agency, on recommendation of the plan commission and also first reading on an ordinance changing the zoning to R-5 for a lot in the center of the block between Caldwell and Pine, fronting on State St. That area will be developed as an apartment complex.

Finances Approved

The council gave approval to the investment of funds: $80,000 from the wheel tax fund; $10,000 from the civil defense fund; $80,000 from the road district fund; and $90,000 from motor fuel tax fund. Another resolution called for the transfer to the general fund of $10,000 from the parking meter fund and $25,000 from the wheel tax fund. The action by the council authorized City Treasurer Rose Cosgriff to make the necessary transactions to complete the business.

The dog officer's report showed 125 dogs caught during May and 113 disposed of during the month.

Alderman Kenneth Kolberer, chairman of the water committee, received council approval for payment of the $1,000 fine to the EPA for pollution of Mauvaisterre Creek. Kolberer said the K. E. Vas Co. was now cleaning the lime sludge beds with EPA approval.

Additional Overlays

Alderman Fernandes received council approval to call for bids and specifications for completing an overlay of asphalt material on South Sandy from Beecher to Anna and from Mauvaisterre from Beecher to Franklin. He also asked for Fayette from Jordan to West Lafayette. He said about $1,000 would be left from the funds originally appropriated for the street repair. He said the low cost this year resulted in an excess of funds and that while the price was low the city should take advantage of the situation and make the added paving as an investment in future traffic plans.

Fernandes said he would consult with the Burlington and Northern Railroad officials to see if the railroad crossing at Hackett Avenue could be closed. He said five property owners on the street have indicated that they would not oppose such a move. He said the railroad was widening and improving two other access crossings to the area and that he felt it would be a safety move.

Dr. Andrew Caraker, a former minister at the First Baptist church in Jacksonville, has received another honor from the board of trustees of the United Church of Religious Science. In 1967 he was invested with the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities.

Recently the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by Dr. Elmer Gifford, Administrator of the United Church of Religious Science.

In investing Dr. Caraker with the degree, Dr. Gifford said: "Dr. Caraker, we honor you today for your outstanding service to God and to man. Within our group you have carved your name among the immortals. As president of our National and International Church Council, vice-president of our International Clergy; president of the California Council of Clergy; as a member of the board of regents; chairman of the Educational Commission for improving ministerial training programs; as a member of the International Expansion Commission; program chairman of the annual convention as the organizer and founder of the First Church of Religious Science in St. Louis, Missouri; inspirational speaker before our Conventions, Ministers' Conventions, Practitioner Assemblies and Youth Conclaves. In all of these positions—and many more—you have given of your time, your talent and your life. The creative influences of your services to our Denomination will always be a vital part of our progress."

Dr. Caraker will be remembered by many friends here as having given of himself in community enterprises in the Ministerial Association, drives for the Red Cross and Salvation Army and speaker for the American Legion at many national observances.

Distinctions have been achieved in other fields by Dr. Caraker. In Illinois he served as chaplain of the State Senate; as Grand Chaplain and as Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons; chairman of the Police and Fire Commission of Mt. Vernon; as president of the Musical Association of Jefferson County.

Dr. Caraker is a graduate of Mercer University, Macon, Georgia and of the Andover Newton Theological Seminary, Newton Center, Massachusetts. He did post-Seminary studies at Yale and the University of Chicago. He served as instructor of sociology at MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Illinois, and instructor of cultural anthropology at Shurtliff College, Alton, Illinois, where he was also the Dean of the College.

Dr. Caraker is the minister of the First Church of Religious Science, Dallas, Texas. He is also Director of the Dallas chapter of the Institute of Religious Science.

people are, they're all local. Up here, they're mostly tourists."

The big difference between the panel and the administration is over the families' program.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department sent the committee data estimating the cost of this program at $11.5 billion compared with the $5 billion listed by the panel itself. A major part of the Committee's welfare families program is a Workfare plan which would cover all those having no pre-school children.

These families would be declared ineligible for welfare and would be assigned to a federal employment corporation which would guarantee them a job.

If the corporation could not get them a private job, they would be given public-service employment. A committee analyst told the panel that HEW had underestimated by $2 billion the cost of President Nixon's family-assistance plan approved by the House.

option of serving Negroes or yielding its license.

But Rehnquist, in announcing the reversal, said a liquor license does not sufficiently tie a club in with the state to make the club public in nature and to require it to observe the 14th Amendment's guarantee of equality for all citizens.

Justices Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall dissented.

In a 4-3 decision, the court barred creditors from repossessing merchandise without giving the buyer notice in advance and a hearing before "a neutral official."

The decision, given by Justice Potter Stewart, could have a nationwide impact since most states provide for automatic repossession when the buyer defaults in his installment payments. Justice Byron R. White, speaking for the three dissenters, predicted that credit may become harder to obtain or, in any event, more expensive.

The ruling decision struck down laws in Pennsylvania and Florida.

Looking ahead to next term, the court agreed to decide whether aliens are to remain automatically barred from civil services jobs and whether a criminal suspect has the right to have a lawyer present when police show his photograph to prospective witnesses.

Since the 1963 Gideon decision the court has gradually broadened the right to counsel to all defendants facing the possibility of at least six months in jail.

In his opinion Monday, Douglas said problems associated with a trial or a guilty plea often have nothing to do with the length of the jail term.

"We are by no means convinced that legal and constitutional questions involved in a case that actually leads to imprisonment even for a brief period are any less complex than when a person can be sent off for six months or more," he wrote.

The decision came on an appeal by a Tallahassee gas station attendant Jon R. Argersinger, who was not offered counsel before he pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon. The sentence was a $500 fine or three months in jail.

The Florida Supreme Court held 4 to 3 that Argersinger was not entitled to a free lawyer.

The Supreme Court's reversal does not settle whether there is an automatic right to a lawyer when the possible penalty upon conviction does not include a jail sentence.

Powell and Rehnquist, without dissenting in a technical sense, objected to the sweep of Douglas's opinion. They said defendants should be granted trial lawyers only when necessary to assure a fair trial.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, concurring with Douglas's majority opinion, said the ruling would add to the burden of judges and lawyers but he predicted they will meet the challenge.

Farm Labor Strikes Affect Marketplace

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — Strikes and boycotts by farm labor are being felt now in urban marketplaces, and there is a better chance than ever for adoption of federal farm labor legislation, the president of the nation's largest farmers organization declared Monday.

Urban legislators are beginning to feel pressure from consumers who have been "victimized" by boycotts of farm produce, John W. Scott, National Grange Master, told the opening session of the 83rd annual convention of the Washington Grange.

Scott said farm labor pressure is causing a backlash from consumers who find that prices have skyrocketed or that things they are accustomed to eating are no longer available.

The Grange supports the right of workers to organize, Scott said, but feels farmers should be protected from a one or two-week strike that could wipe out a year's crop investment.

Both the Grange and the American Farm Bureau have called for creation of a separate National Labor Relations Board to deal with agriculture, he said.

Washington Grange Master Jack Silvers of Zillah echoed Scott's comments, and said farm labor legislation is needed at both the state and national levels.

State legislation can protect the right of workers to select a bargaining agent, he said, but federal legislation is necessary because agriculture also comes under the heading of interstate commerce.

employment.

A committee analyst told the panel that HEW had underestimated by $2 billion the cost of President Nixon's family-assistance plan approved by the House.

South Dakota Deluge Causes Water Shortage

RAPID CITY, S. D. (AP) — "You never think about how much water you use in a day," said Mrs. Richard Fink as she filled a five-gallon container at one of Rapid City's 10 water distribution centers Monday.

"We use about 10 gallons a day now, and that is considerably short of what we need to be comfortable," she said.

"You have to think water all the time," Mrs. Fink said. "You can't wash any clothes, of course. That's out. Can't spare that kind of water."

Mrs. Fink was one of more than 40,000 Rapid City residents and visitors who have learned since the killer flood that struck late Friday night how much they depend on clean water.

Most of the city was without tap water for almost three days. Some areas of the city were returned to service at midday Monday, but local officials weren't predicting when the water supplies would be normal.

Broken water mains and fear of contaminated water prompted city officials to turn off the water supply within a few minutes of the flood that has claimed more than 200 lives.

Visitors without electric razors walked the streets unshaven. Motels supplied a pail for occupants to dip water out of swimming pools to flush toilets.

Most residents, however, used any large available container to get water for their families. The water trucks came from as far as Chadron, Neb., 100 miles away, but most of it was supplied by nearby Ellsworth Air Force Base.

Ray Johns filled a 20-gallon garbage can and three one-gallon jugs on his trip to the distribution center.

"The hands and face, the clothes, not being able to wash much only makes you uncomfortable," he said. "But you can live with that—the sanitation is the problem. This water is too valuable right now to pour away a couple of gallons just to flush."

Harold Hayes is chairman of the Rapid Valley Water Service Co., a cooperative with wells on the outskirts of Rapid City. The water is clean, and it is being used.

"We had the pump and hoses going all last night," Hayes said. "The people came all the time. The hose was just a steady stream."

LUTHERAN PASTOR AT BEARDSTOWN PLANS TO RETIRE

BEARDSTOWN — The Rev. Edward M. Lang, who has been in the Lutheran ministry 40 years, will retire July 1 as pastor of St. John's Lutheran Evangelical church here.

He is now recovering from surgery at a Springfield hospital, and he and Mrs. Lang plan to live in Springfield where their daughter and her family reside. They have purchased a home in that city.

The Rev. Mr. Lang was installed as minister of St. John's in Beardstown and St. John's in Rushville Feb. 5, 1959. He acted as counselor for the Central Illinois District of Lutheran Women's Missionary League for four years and also served as counselor for the Jacksonville district.

The Langs were married in St. Louis in 1932 and have three children, the Rev. Edward M. Lang Jr., pastor at Osage, Iowa, Mrs. Allen (Judy) Herbst of Springfield and Duane Lang of St. Charles, Mo., a high school science teacher.

Over To Grand Jury Session

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally turned his attention to Argentine economic problems Monday after a meeting Sunday with fellow ranchers on an Argentine horse farm.

Connally, on an international briefing tour for President Nixon, was to meet today with Argentine President Alejandro Lanusse and Finance Minister Cayetano Lliccardo.

Connally, who plans to retire to his Texas ranch after his world tour, spent Sunday at a stud farm 30 miles from Buenos Aires and later returned to Buenos Aires for an embassy dinner and briefings on Argentine problems.

Argentina was the fourth stop on the Connally trip which will take him from Latin America to Australia and the Orient. He has already visited Colombia, Venezuela and Brazil.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — There is a widespread belief that increases in productivity are more difficult to obtain in the service industries, such as health, recreation, insurance and education, than in the manufacture of goods.

And when it is noted that the United States economy is steadily becoming more service oriented—for the first time, more money was spent last year on services than on goods—the notion becomes mixed with concern.

It even leads to dire forecasts that the American quest for the good life, which is represented by the growth of services, may lead to a deterioration of the nation's competitive position.

A look at the figures would tend to confirm the fears. During the decade of the 1960s, productivity in the services rose by an annual rate of about 2.3 per cent, compared with 3 per cent in manufacturing.

But that was past, and according to an acknowledged authority on service industries, John R. Beckett, it need not be the future. The efficiencies of volume, he maintains, are not limited to the production of goods alone.

Any time you have a one-on-one effort, such as in the barber shop, you have limitations, Beckett concedes. But he also claims that many service jobs need not require one worker for each client, although that is often the way they have been practiced in the past.

In the teaching of surgery, he states, there is no reason why students should be huddled around an operating table when vastly greater numbers could be just as effectively taught through the use of video tapes.

Beckett believes that the future of productivity increases in services is highly dependent upon a marriage with manufacturing. Without machines, services would remain dependent upon human energy.

How do you improve the productivity of the barber, the automobile mechanic and the bus driver by improving machines, he was asked?

Beckett passed on the barber, although it isn't inconceivable that future barbers might be far more productive by relying upon chemical treatments.

The automobile mechanic's productivity could be raised quickly, Beckett believes, by the use of sophisticated diagnostic equipment. And the bus driver's output might be improved by not thinking of him as a bus driver but as a people mover operating more efficient mass transportation vehicles.

True, there will remain the need for one-on-one services, Beckett concedes, but he adds that often the limitations are in our conception of the job. In most instances, the economies of scale are available, he says.

Kleindienst, Schultz Sworn In WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon presided Monday over the swearing in of three new Cabinet-rank officials, including Richard G. Kleindienst, whose battle for Senate confirmation as attorney general was one of the longest ever involving a presidential appointment.

At a ceremony in the East Room of the White House, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger administered oaths to Kleindienst; to George P. Schultz as secretary of the Treasury; and Caspar W. Weinberger as director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

Fallbearers were Virgil Hayes, Dallas Buckalew, Ralph Troyer and Mike Browning. Gilliam - Buchanan Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Beware Of Soaking On 'Bargain' Pools

By CARLTON SMITH
Some terrific bargains in backyard swimming pools are available these days—if you listen to, and believe, the thousands of hit-and-run promoters who are victimizing buyers in every corner of the country.

Complaint files are bulging with reports of "bargain" pools that sag, bulge, crack, leak, rust out in a single season and collapse in a strong wind. Buyers can't get needed—and promised—service, and warranties and guarantees prove worthless.

Some of the "bargain" pools carry a low price tag because the price, as it turns out, doesn't include delivery, plot preparation or installation—all of which involve heavy labor, construction skills and equipment that bar do-it-yourself installation of even medium-size pools for most buyers.

These are not isolated instances. According to the National Swimming Pool Institute, representing major manufacturers and dealers, the sale of pools by gyp artists has now become a multi-million-dollar operation—and, it adds, "Promoters are operating in all sections of the country."

Though it will offer instructions on how to do almost anything else yourself, the magazine "Mechanix Illustrated" doesn't encourage pool buyers to attempt installation of anything but the smallest waders. It reports in the current issue numerous cases of filters, pumps and valves that wouldn't work, vinyl liners that didn't fit, back yards turned into swamps, and one incredible 40 by 24-foot pool that was tilted half a foot out of level—giving its owner the sensation of swimming uphill.

And it was ostensibly professional installers who committed these bores. The trouble is that the fast-buck salesman often represents no reputable company. Once they have you signed to a contract, they peddle the contract to any out-of-work construction outfit.

To avoid getting soaked even before you get your pool full of water, author Lester David counsels these precautions:

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made a dogged effort Monday to stop the downward slide of prices that occurred during all of last week.

The trading volume was not much better than the sluggish trend of last week. At 13.39 million shares on the New York Stock Exchange, it was a little ahead of Friday's 12.79 million.

Prices struggled slowly upward during most of the day, and advancing issues clung to a gradually narrowing lead on the Big Board.

At the close the losers took over, 701 to 682, among the 1,740 issues traded.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished at 936.71, up 2.26. At midday it had been ahead more than 5 points. In the last five sessions it had lost 26.94 points.

The New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,300 common stocks was up .05 to 59.40.

Brokers said they were satisfied that there was enough bargain hunting to keep the market from sinking again. The bargain hunting was among the issues that had been pushed down in the five previous sessions.

"The failure of last week's selling to carry through" was cited as an encouraging factor by Bradbury K. Thurlow of Hoppin, Watson, who added: "This was better than last week."

Oil issues were active and higher. Most stock categories were mixed, but chemical and airline stocks showed strength. Utilities were weaker.

The Big Board's most-active issue was Wheelabrator-Frye, up ¼ to ¼ on 480,900 shares. The company's president predicted it was on its way "to becoming the IBM of the environmental protection field."

Jack Can Win But Not Sweep

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—For my money Jack Nicklaus is the best around today and I think he can do anything he ever sets his mind to do on a golf course—except for one thing.

I don't think he can put together The Grand Slam. He'll be halfway there if he wins the U.S. Open which begins here Thursday and that in itself would be a tremendous morale booster for Jack. The Great, because it would be his 13th major title conquest equalling Bobby Jones' all-time record. But even should he win here this week, and he certainly can, I can't see him winning both the British Open and PGA titles later this summer.

Why not? Because The Slam isn't really a compulsion with him. He's not blotting everything and everyone else out of his mind the way Gary Player did when he did everything but become a Trappist monk to win the 1965 U.S. Open.

Nicklaus will tell you himself that others seem more intrigued with the possibility of his accomplishing the Slam than he is.

"I think primarily that's been a press ambition," says Nicklaus, aware many writers are pulling for him to do it because it would make a good story for one thing and it would give them something else to write about him for another.

"Sure I'd love to win the Grand Slam," says Nicklaus. "Who wouldn't? I don't think it's an impossible thing to do, but I think it's very improbable. Slams happen. They're not planned. If you win the first one, the Masters, which I have, you go on to the U.S. Open, and if you happen to win that one, then you point for the British Open, and if you win that one, then there's a chance to talk about The Slam. Now though, I think it's somewhat premature."

Nicklaus is right about that and that's still another reason I don't think he'll make The Slam. The closer he gets to it, the more it's liable to bug him.

Bobby Jones, only a few years away from achieving The Slam, had a big advantage over Nicklaus. Nobody had ever done it before so when Jones was on the way to doing so in 1930, he wasn't bugged every day by people asking him "Do you think you can do it? Do you think you can do it?"

If you don't think questions like that can turn you around a little, go ask Roger Maris. Or Hank Aaron.

There's still another factor weighing against Nicklaus completing The Slam, and that's his pace on the golf course. He's slow, no matter what he says, and he's sensitive about it, no matter what he says.

A few years ago Jimmy Demaret, Ben Hogan's old partner, came out and said Nicklaus would be finished by 35 because he played so slow. Nicklaus is 32 now and nowhere near finished, but everytime somebody brings up that statement by Demaret it still rubs him the wrong way.

"I've played this way all my life," he says. "I stand over the ball a long time, I walk fast, but that's my makeup. That's my game. You go back to the history and you look at the players who were really good players. You look at the Jones, the Hagens, the Hogans. Every one of them was a slow player. It's pretty difficult to criticize Hogan and Jones. They were probably two of the slower players we ever had, and two of the best."

Jack Nicklaus loses me there. I don't know which ball game he was watching but Walter Hagen was famous for his carefree "miss 'em quick" style of play and Hogan, while no speed merchant, certainly never dawdled.

As for Bobby Jones, he played so fast he made everybody else seem slow motion by comparison. Shortly after he completed his Slam in 1930—The Slam was different in those days comprising the U.S. and British Open and the U.S. and British amateur titles—Francis Marks, a British golf writer, commented in the London Morning Post about how fast Jones was.

"He is quick and wastes no time," said Marks. "He takes his stance and immediately from the moment he sets his club behind the ball to when he strikes it I count three seconds. If I time him from when he stoops to tee up the ball to when he actually hits it, the ball already is on its way as I whisper six."

As a golfer, few around today can compare with Jack Nicklaus. As a reporter, he's still a great golfer.

Torre Leads Voting For All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Third baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis, who doesn't lead the National League in any major batting category, led National Leaguers Monday in the first balloting for the July 25 All-Star Game in Atlanta.

Torre, who was hitting .335 going into Monday night's game, drew 73,129 votes in the balloting of fans throughout the country and had a commanding lead over his closest pursuer, Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs. Santo had 26,227 votes.

Second in the voting was outfielder Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves with 69,548 votes, followed by shortstop Bud Harrelson of the New York Mets with 56,759. In all, 152,009 votes were cast in the voting which ends July 15.

The closest race was developing for the catcher's spot with Manny Sanguillen of Pittsburgh leading Johnny Bench of Cincinnati by less than 1,000 votes. Sanguillen had 48,203 to 47,305 for Bench, the All-Star catcher the last two years.

Behind Aaron in the balloting for the three outfield spots were Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh with 53,812 and Rusty Staub of the Mets with 50,713.

Other leaders were Lee Maye of Houston at first base and Glenn Beckert of Chicago at second base.

First results of the American League voting will be announced Friday.

Local Swimmers In AAU Action

Two Jacksonville swimmers, Petra Koolker and Sherry Fredericks, competed in the second Annual Decatur Invitational AAU Swim Meet held at Millikin University over the weekend. Over 600 age-group swimmers representing 34 swim clubs from Illinois and Missouri participated in the two days of competition.

Miss Koolker narrowly missed bringing home a sixth place trophy in the 8-under 50 yard freestyle with a time of 38.9. she also lowered her entry times in the 25 yard backstroke and 25 yard breaststroke as well as turning in a fine 17.3 performance in the 25 yard freestyle.

Miss Fredericks lowered her entry times in both the 11-12 year old 100 yard breaststroke with a clocking of 1:34.0 and in the 100 yard backstroke with a 1:26.0 effort.

ABA Heads Vow Complete Program

NEW YORK (AP) — Top officials of the American Basketball Association oozed optimism for the future Monday, while the proposed sale of the Memphis Pros apparently ran into a snag and reports circulated that The Floridians' franchise would be transferred to Montreal and the Pittsburgh team would be relocated in New Haven, Conn.

"I have a definite feeling of optimism and 100 per cent commitment on the part of the franchisees to the ABA program for next season," said Utah owner Bill Daniels after being rejected league president.

"The ABA will be stronger in 1972-73," vowed Daniels, at a news conference, following two meetings by the Board of Trustees. "It is up in the air at the present time as to how many teams we will go with, and we won't know until tomorrow."

Commissioner Jack Dolph, who recently announced his resignation, effective when his three-year contract expires in October, said no decision was reached on the league's three financially weak franchises—Memphis, Pittsburgh and the Floridians.

But, said Dolph, "we are going to go with our strongest teams."

Meanwhile, the trustees heard a proposal from the Memphis trustees for the sale of the club to a group headed by Langdon "Zip" Viracola of Dallas, a former halfback with the Washington Redskins of the National Football League, and Charles Napper Sr., also of Dallas.

Viracola, who set a National League record for highest lifetime winning percentage in 1970, said he was getting heat and traction therapy and massages.

His hospitalization was the first sign the $140,000-a-year hurler may be as unhealthy as his 2-10 record.

In Marichal's 10 defeats, he has been shut out four times, including the last two, and beaten four games by a single run.

Lyle Winters checked the Redlegs on seven hits in the opener, with Roodhouse pounding out 11 safeties. Gordon Brannan stroking three hits for the game.

Brannan added three more hits in the nightcap and Larry Churchman limited the Redlegs to only two first inning hits, including a solo homer by Wayne Smith. Churchman fanned 11 and issued three walks.

USAC Sprints
Are Rescheduled

SPRINGFIELD — The United States Auto Club sprint race program which was rained out June 4 at the Illinois State Fairgrounds has been rescheduled for August 27. Rain checks will be honored.

Joe Shaheen and Wink Bridges, co-promoters, said a tentative date of June 18 was unsatisfactory as the sprinters were running Friday and Saturday nights, June 16 and 17 at Grand Rapids and Toledo, Ohio respectively and could not make it to Springfield in time for a Sunday June 18 day program.

They have said they would keep the team in Memphis, and pay the huge debt that the Pros owe the league.

The hitch in the Memphis sale developed when Viracola learned that such a sale has to be approved by the club's stockholders. It takes 10 days to call a stockholders' meeting.

The Pros are a community-owned team, with more than 4,600 stockholders, each of whom paid $5 a share when the team needed money during the 1970-71 season.

Therefore, the sale contract could not be approved for at least 10 days.

"I will have one million, 200 thousand dollars in cash tomorrow, and if they don't want to accept it, I'll remove the offer and go home," said an angry Viracola.

"I think the contract has been basically accepted by the league," Avron Fogelman, one of Memphis' trustees, said to Viracola. "But there is no way we can get the approval of the stockholders by tomorrow."

Meanwhile, there were reports that the Floridians would be switched to Montreal and that Pittsburgh would play next season in New Haven, unless either team came up with new money in the next 10 days to save the franchises. Both teams reportedly will be given 10-day grace periods, because the league presently cannot legally take away the franchises.

If they do not amass the money, then they would be forced to sell.

There was no indication who the owners would be if either franchises were sold.

Dolph also revealed that the Virginia Squires had settled their debt with the league, although no figures were announced.

He also said that there had been no discussion of a possible merger with the National Basketball Association or of his possible successor.

Cash, Stanley
Drill Home Runs
For 2-1 Victory

ST. PAUL—MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Norm Cash and Mickey Stanley drilled bases-empty home runs while Joe Niekro and Fred Scherman continually pitched out of trouble Monday night as the Detroit Tigers edged the Minnesota Twins, 2-1.

Cash, with his 11th homer of the season, sailed a Bert Blyleven pitch 385 feet to the right field bleachers with one out in the second to give the Tigers a 1-0 lead in the nationally televised game.

Stanley connected off Blyleven, 7-6, for a 371-foot opposite field homer to right to break a 1-1 tie in the fourth.

Niekro, 2-1, meantime, gave up nine hits before he was relieved after hurling six innings. But the Twins, who ran themselves out of two potential big innings, could only touch him for a single run in the second.

Rich Reese, subbing for slugger Harmon Killebrew who was given a rest, lined a double down the right field line and scored the Twins' second inning run on a bloop single by Jim Nettles.

Scherman, appearing in his 20th game, came on to start the seventh, gave up a leadoff double to pinch hitter Rick Dempsey but settled down to record his seventh save.

The victory, Detroit's second straight after four consecutive losses, protected the Tigers' slim lead in the East Division of the American League over the Baltimore Orioles.

Marichal
Hospitalized
With Pains

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Juan Marichal, once the ace of the San Francisco Giants' pitching staff, was hospitalized with severe back pains Monday, one day after becoming the major league's first 10-game loser this season.

Marichal was in traction at St. Luke's Hospital to relieve a sharp pain in the lower back. Dr. Eldon C. Sailer said Marichal would stay there for tests and physiotherapy up to a week.

"It's been bothering me for a long, long time, about three or four weeks," the right-hander said.

"It seems I pitch four or five innings real good, then I get this stiffness, a pain that bothers me and I start pitching real bad, throwing too many balls."

"It really bothers my rhythm and whatever it is, it's very uncomfortable," Marichal said.

The 33-year old Dominican Republic native, who set a National League record for highest lifetime winning percentage in 1970, said he was getting heat and traction therapy and massages.

Brock Lets Cards Dump Dodgers, 3-2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lou Brock singled home the tie-breaking run in the fifth inning and then robbed the Los Angeles Dodgers with a spectacular catch in the seventh, lifting the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-2 victory Monday night.

The fleet Brock singled off the Dodgers' Bill Singer, 3-7, to score Dal Maxvill and snap a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning.

Two innings later, with the Dodgers' Duke Sims aboard via a walk and two out, Brock raced far to his left past the 390-foot mark in left-center field and stole a possible double off the bat of Los Angeles' Bobby Valentine.

Singer and Cards' right-hander Reggie Cleveland, 6-4, had dueled on even terms until the light-hitting Maxvill ducked an inside pitch which hit his bat, the opening inning, but the Dodgers came back on doubles by Valentine and Manny Mota followed by Bill Buckner's single to tie in the third.

Atlanta Rallies
To Edge Mets 8-7

ATLANTA (AP) — Dusty Baker capped a four-run explosion with a sacrifice fly in an eighth inning rally helped by a crucial New York error as the Atlanta Braves beat the Mets 8-7 Monday night.

Baker's fly ball, dropped by center fielder Tommie Agee but officially ruled a sacrifice fly nevertheless, brought home Darrell Evans from third base.

Moments earlier, Evans had reached third on an error by third baseman Wayne Garrett that allowed two runs to score.

Evans, attempting to move two runners along, bunted toward first and Cleon Jones threw to Garrett in an attempt to force play. But the ball got by Garrett, allowing both Hank Aaron and Sonny Jackson to score with the tying runs.

Three straight singles opening the frame by Ralph Barr, Aaron and Rico Carty had given the Braves their first run off New York's Tug McGraw, 3-2. Jackson ran for Carty.

The Mets had taken a 7-4 lead going into the inning on solo home runs by Rusty Staub, No. 9 on the year, and Ken Boswell, his second, in the top of the eighth.

New York took a 1-0 lead in the fourth on John Milner's sixth home run of the year and made it 2-0 in Garrett's circuit shot, his first.

Earl Williams slammed his sixth home run in the first to cut the Mets' lead to 2-1 before New York rallied for three runs in the seventh.

Robinson Doesn't
Appreciate Remarks

BALTIMORE (AP) — The resurgent Baltimore Orioles haven't lost a game since Manager Earl Weaver suggested last week that some of the veterans may be over the hill.

It's impossible to determine if Weaver's comments actually fired up the Orioles. But even if they did, Brooks Robinson doesn't appreciate Weaver's means to an end.

"I find the remark embarrassing," said the 35-year-old third baseman after Baltimore defeated the Texas Rangers 3-1 Sunday to extend its winning streak to four straight.

"I don't enjoy going places to hear people say I'm over the hill, or know that they're thinking it," Robinson said.

Robinson told baseball writer Chan Keith of the Baltimore News-American:

"If a guy feels that way about something, I'd rather he spoke to me man-to-man. Not that Earl and I haven't had some talks lately, because we have."

"But for a comment like that to go on the national (news) wires, well, I didn't appreciate it."

"I know that Weaver has to worry for his job," Robinson said, "and I know he had to do something. He said what he thought he had to. That's a manager's prerogative. But that doesn't mean I like it."

Buchanan Signs
To Fight Duran

NEW YORK (AP) — "I just go in and do what is necessary," said Scotland's Ken Buchanan of his strategy after he signed Monday to defend his World Boxing Association lightweight championship against Roberto Duran of Panama.

The fight, which will be Buchanan's third defense of the crown he won from Ismael Laguna two years ago, is scheduled for June 26 at Madison Square Garden.

Duran, a potent puncher who has scored 24 knockouts in winning all of his 25 bouts, predicted he would defeat the champion within nine rounds.

The fight, for which Buchanan will receive $125,000, is a contrast of styles. The peppery Scot is a skillful, stand-up boxer of the classic school who has a rapier-like left jab, nimble footwork and brilliant defensive moves. Duran is a flat-footed slugger who packs a potent punch in either hand.

Nicklaus Keeps
Earnings Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, despite a two-week absence from the tour in preparation for the U.S. Open, still maintains the lead among pro golf's money winners, according to statistics announced Monday by the PGA Tournament Players Division.

Nicklaus has earned $153,051 while Lee Trevino, who withdrew due to illness after the second round of the IVB-Philadelphia Golf Classic, continues to retain second place with $118,572. Jerry Heard is third with $113,311.

J. C. Snead, winner at Philadelphia, soared from 34th to 16th place with $62,715 in total earnings.

Wilmer Allison, former Davis Cup star, is in his 18th season as Texas tennis coach.

Man Vs Elements In U.S. Open

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — It's man against the elements this weekend in the 72nd U.S. Open Golf Championship.

"If the greens bake out hard and the wind blows, I'd take a score of 290 and wait for the one-two-three prize money," said Art Bell, host pro of the Pebble Beach Links where 150 of the world's best golfers tee off Thursday for the game's biggest prize. "This course can be a monster."

Pebble Beach's 6,815 yards snake through statuesque pines and along rocky bluffs, overlooking the Pacific Ocean, a natural water hazard.

The sand traps, acres of stony beaches, augment the deep man-made risks that frame every green. The greens themselves, of bent grass with traces of the wild weed known as Poa Annua, are small and so hard it's like pitching to a marble-top table.

"There will be plenty of bogeys and double bogeys," commented Jack Nicklaus, the Masters titleholder and strong advance favorite, "but as in the case of any golf course if you're hitting the ball well, you can score well."

Nicklaus has been practicing here since Thursday, testing the course where he won the National Amateur in 1961 and where he has played in numerous Crosby Clambakes.

The Crosby, a highlight of the Winter Tour, is played in January, under different conditions. The weather is even more capricious in January but officials of the U.S. Golf Association have lined all the fairways and framed the greens with knee-high rough, like tangled wire.

"If the greens get hard, it will be hard to break par," said Arnold Palmer, who has also been practicing since Thursday. "The course is always tough—you never know when it will reach up and grab you," commented Billy Casper.

Seven of the holes play along the ocean. With the wind swirling off the water, it can take as much as a two-iron shot to reach the green on the 110-yard, par-3 seventh. If the wind dies, you are apt to over hit the green and drop 120 feet into the white-capped waves.

The 18th is a 530-yard, par-5 terror. Hook a ball and you wind up in the bay. Land on the beach and the tide may wash the ball away in the midst of backswing.

Palmer once took an eight on the eighth hole and a nine on the par-three 17th. Dale Douglass took a 19 in the 1963 Crosby on the 421-yard 10th. Jack Montgomery had a 15 on the same hole.

Dick Runkle, a Los Angeles amateur and a scratch player, came to the final hole in 1968 needing a double bogey seven to win the Pacific Coast Amateur, but he hit one ball out of bounds and another into the ocean to take a 10.

"It's bad for my slider," Lee Trevino, the defending champion who has been ailing in El Paso, said after the Crosby. "It's not my course."

Empires Rowdy, owned and driven by Harold Hamm of Industry, swept the first division of the three-year-old trot, in 2:16.3 and 2:20.0.

Lola Kay Queen, owned by Gardner Jacobus of Lewistown and driven by Lloyd Anale, took both heats of the second division of the three-year-old trot, in 2:22.0 and 2:14.1.

Idlewild Lou, owned by James M. Read of Trivoli and driven by Raymond Ball, Jr., swept the first division of the three-year-old pace, in 2:15.2 and 2:16.1.

Blue Racer, owned and driven by Larry E. Bowen of Mt. Sterling was first and third in the second division of the three-year-old pace, winning in 2:12.3.

Chalophone, owned and driven by John Brown of Macomb, swept the trot for non-winners of $2,500, with times of 2:13.0 and 2:13.3.

Orphan Commander, owned and driven by Don Fagan of Rushville, and Mighty Supreme, owned and driven by D. Lorraine, were both one-two in the pace for non-winners of $2,500, with 2:14.3 and 2:16.0 times.

NEW YORK (NEA) — One can only painfully imagine Tim Foli's inner tortures.

He is the Montreal Expos' shortstop, lean and taut and volatile as a firecracker.

At age 21, he is filled with talent and promise and unquenchable temper.

In the space of one week in late May, he was fined $100 for throwing down his batting helmet and bat at a called third strike, and then thumbed out of a game while protesting with throbbing neck veins another called third strike.

With the New York Mets this spring, he got into a clubhouse argument with coach Joe Pignatano and heaved a punch. Not long after, he was traded to Montreal.

Conceivably this punch had something to do with the trade, the last blow as far as the Mets were concerned. They may have felt that, for all of Foli's aggressiveness and potential, they are not running a Stillman's gym. For in the dugout last summer Foli had also presented Ed Kranepool with knuckle sandwich.

On the field, Foli will make an infield out and run at the first baseman in sheer frustration. In the dugout, he walks the planks a thousand times like a worrisome prelim fighter.

J'ville Legion Squad Splits 4 Over Weekend

The Jacksonville American Legion baseball team dropped a twinbill to Lexington Saturday at the Pony-Colt Park, but rebounded to sweep a doubleheader at Virginia Sunday.

Lexington's Ed Moore and Mark Schultz combined on a two-hitter in a 6-2 count in Saturday's opener, with Phil Kemp coming back with a two-hitter in an 11-0 blanking in the nightcap.

Tim Reiterman tossed a three-hitter in a 5-1 count over Virginia in the opener Sunday, fanning 15 batters and walking only two in Jacksonville's Lincoln Land American Legion conference opener. Steve Chambers, Matt Freesen, Jim Bonds and Jim McNeely all had two hits for the winners.

Bill Turner turned in a two-hit effort in the 5-2 nightcap, fanning 11 and issuing three walks. Bonds was three-for-four at the plate with a triple and home run.

Jacksonville stands 7-4 overall and 2-0 in league play. The team hosts Macomb for a twinbill Wednesday.

LITTLE LEAGUE

The Yanks and Giants each posted 7-5 victories in Elks Little League play Monday evening.

The Yanks clipped the Red Sox after building up an early 6-0 lead. The Yanks now stand 8-3 to the Red Sox' 6-5 slate.

Bruce Baldwin fanned 15 batters in a four-hitter to pace the Giants over the Cards, with a five-run first inning the difference.

In customarily sensitive fashion, teammates call Foli "nutty," and "Crazy Horse." And "redneck."

"It's because I'm so high-strung," he says.

He says he is driven to be the best shortstop in baseball, but has so far succeeded in being only the brash.

If teammates are of little help and understanding, umpires are even less so. His spectacular complaints are taken by defensive umpires as an attempt to show them up.

"Half the umpires in the league are trying to curb his temper," said Montreal manager Gene Mauch. "They're so smart they ought to be psychiatrists at Columbia."

Mauch, however, says that he would like to channel Foli's fiery spirit. "He wants to be the first man to hit 1,000," said Mauch. "He won't be, of course, and when he understands that he'll be a different guy. But it takes experience for someone to learn just how capable he is."

Foli, an intelligent, unsmiling fellow whose steel-rimmed glasses add a degree of austerity, says he is so wound up before a game that he has difficulty eating, and finds it so hard to unwind after a game that he tosses in bed well into the night.

"I'm working on my self-control," he says. "I'm trying hard to relax more."

Yet when he goes 0-for-20, as he did in May, he begins to tighten the grip of his bat and the grit of his teeth. Do I have it? must be a persistent thought.

He obviously expects a great deal of himself. He was signed by the Mets for a reported $75,000 bonus as No. 1 free agent draft choice in 1968. After three good seasons in the minors, he spent much of 1971 on the Mets' bench; he hit .226 in 97 games.

He was sometimes erratic in the field and, when the team floundered, he was distressingly booed.

Foli received a break by going to Montreal where a starting job was open to him. He wants to make the most of it, in a hurry. He comes from a baseball family and, it seems, is looking over his shoulder at it. He had an older brother who, he says, only had a "cup of coffee" in the majors, with the California Angels. And Foli's father was his team manager in Little League. There remain unspoken pressures.

"I talk to my dad about once a week on the phone," says Foli, "and we both feel the same way about my career. It isn't success just being here. You've got to do something to make yourself known. You've got to prove you can play."

Pressure in the big leagues for anyone, especially for an unproven 21-year-old, is monumental. Before 40,000 ungenerous fans, each trip to the plate can be a trauma. One thinks of some other "high-strung" players like Ted Williams and Ty Cobb who learned to handle the pressure. And some like Jimmy Piersall and the young Tony Horton who did not.

In Nichols Open Rites Tuesday

Barry Bringman swept into a one-stroke lead over a trio in second place Sunday afternoon at the halfway point of the annual Nichols Park Open Golf Tournament.

Bringman fired a four-over par 70 for a 36-hole total of 138 in the 72-hole meet that will finish this coming weekend.

First round leader Steve Bockemeier came home with a 72 Sunday to fall into a three-way tie with Mike Way and Russ Mosley with 139's, with Way carding a three-over 69.

Driver Dies As Hill Wins At LeMans

LE MANS, France (AP) — The trees near the "Indianapolis Bend" on the Le Mans 24-hour Auto Race circuit are sheared off near the ground for 50 yards.

The scythe was the hurtling yellow Lola sports car of veteran Swedish driver Joakim Bonnier, who died instantly in the wreckage.

An instant's error in trying to pass a slower car ended a 24-year career at the heights of auto racing and cast a pall over the victory, eight hours later, of his old teammate, Graham Hill, in the classic race Sunday.

Bonnier, founder and only president of the Grand Prix Drivers Association and leader of the campaign for increased safety on circuits and in cars, was killed on a stretch of road specially widened and lined with barriers just for this race—but on a section yet to be improved. It was Bonnier's 13th time here.

A member of a Swedish publishing family, he was, with Hill, the last of the old guard drivers who raced against such men as Juan-Manuel Fangio, Alberto Ascari, Mike Collins and the Marquis de Portago.

And Bonnier was still driving and capable of leading a top race like Le Mans, as he did early Saturday. He had won a four-hour race here last March and held the track record. Hill and Bonnier were close friends from their days together in the British Racing Motors team in 1960.

The Matra team kept the news of Bonnier's death from Hill and his French teammate, Henri Pescarolo, until after they brought their Matra-Simca 670 across the line for the first French victory here since Louis Rosier won in a Talbot in 1950.

It was a "horrible shock" and "sad that my first win here in 10 attempts should be in these circumstances," Hill said. Those who were there gave varying versions of the accident in which Bonnier, 42, died. But it was clear that he was attempting to pass a Ferrari driven by Florian Vetsch of Switzerland at a kink in the track where the drivers usually had the accelerator on the floor-boards, traveling at about 170 miles an hour.

Vic Elford of Britain, driving an Alfa Romeo, said that Bonnier had just passed him. The way Elford reconstructed it, Bonnier was looking for an opening on the right of the Ferrari and the two cars touched. Bonnier's Lola skidded out of control onto the left side of the track where it hit a guard rail and flew out toward the trees lining the track.

For the organizers, who again got the 300,000 plus crowd that makes Le Mans one of the biggest single sports events in the world, the problem remains.

Sunday.

Bob Neff rests five strokes of the pace with Gene Price and Mickey Little five back. Duane Hess, with a best round of 68 Sunday drew within six strokes, along with Tom Kline.

The final 36 holes will be played Saturday and Sunday, with tee-off times to be announced later this week.

PITTSFIELD — A former Barry resident, Mrs. Helen Sigler of Richmond Heights, Missouri, died Saturday evening at St. Joseph hospital in Kirkwood, Mo. She was 67 years of age.

Mrs. Sigler was born near Barry May 31, 1905, daughter of James and Dollie Fesler Wilson. She was married in 1926 to Louis Sigler who survives with a daughter, Mrs. Rosemary Hinton of Crestwood, Missouri. There are two grandchildren.

These sisters and brother survive, Mrs. Donna Williams, Mrs. Louise Main, Mrs. Hazel Williams, all of Barry and James Wilson of Morrison, Ill. Two brothers preceded in death. Funeral services will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Lock Funeral Home in Barry with Rev. Robert Byler officiating. Interment will be in Park Lawn cemetery at Barry.

McLarens Stay Hot In Can Am

By BLOYS BRITT AP Auto Racing Writer Some four years ago Mark Donohue and car owner Roger Penske left the Can-Am road racing series in a huff, saying they wouldn't be back until they had a winner.

Well, they're back—not with a winner yet, but with a fancy new L & M Porsche that almost certainly will cause the long-dominant Gulf McLaren cars a heap of trouble before the nine-race series is over.

The McLarens won Sunday's 1972 opener at Mosport Park, Ontario, old-timer Denis Hulme bringing home the lead car just as he has in 21 of the previous 44 races in the series' six-year history.

But Donohue, the 1972 Indianapolis 500 winner, was slowly but surely running Hulme down and probably would have caught him had the race gone a few more laps.

Pete Revson was third in the other McLaren, though the New Yorker had it wrapped up with a five-mile lead only three laps from the end, only to be forced out by vibration problems.

Elsewhere, two blue-and-white French Matras streaked across the finish line together at Le Mans to capture first and second place in the world's only current 24-hour race.

The lead car was piloted by Frenchman Henri Pescarolo and Britisher Graham Hill. The second-place car, officially nine laps to the rear, was handled by Francois Cevert of France and Howden Ganley of New Zealand.

Joakim Bonnier, a close friend and neighbor of world champion Jackie Stewart, was killed during the race.

In Sunday's other major race, David Pearson drove a Mercury to his third big track triumph in two months by taking a 400-mile event for Grand National stock cars at Cambridge Junction, Mich.

Pearson who succeeded A. J. Foyt in April as the driver of the Wood Brothers' car, averaged 146.6 miles an hour in leading 154 of the 200 laps around the two-mile Michigan International Speedway.

Second place went to Bobby Allison in a Chevrolet, third to Richard Petty in a Dodge and fourth to James Hylton in a Ford.

And at Donnybrook International Speedway in Brainerd, Minn., Denny Long of Sterling, Ill., drove his Corvette to victory in the International Motor Sports Association's Camel Three-Hour, averaging 94.13 miles an hour for 285 miles.

Donohue who last raced in the Can-Am in 1968, had qualified the 12-cylinder twin-turbo-charged Porsche on the pole at Mosport Park with a track record 119.307 m.p.h.

At the start, he quickly put Revson and Hulme to his rear and appeared set for a wire-to-wire victory.

But a small part in one of the turbochargers began acting up after 18 circuits of the 2.459-mile course, forcing him to pit for repairs.

Hulme managed to hang on for the nearly $15,000 top money.

Peak of rural Roodhouse and her mother has just completed 26 years of teaching, sixteen of which were in Northwestern High School.

During her high school years she was active in Librarians' Club in which she served as president of the local club and treasurer of the Illinois Student Librarians' Association her senior year, band, chorus, GAA, FTA, and Student Council. She was voted Miss Northwestern and 1972 Junior-Senior Prom Queen and was the recipient of the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award and Outstanding Librarian Award.

She was named an Illinois State Scholar and an Outstanding Teenager of America and is listed in Merit's Who's Who Among High School Seniors. This fall she will enter Knox College in Galesburg as a science major.

S. Colorado State Honors Lloyd Dudley

A former Jacksonville resident, Lloyd P. Dudley, who served on the faculty at Illinois College, 1947-57, has retired from the teaching profession and received a professor meritis status at Southern Colorado State College.

Lloyd P. Dudley

Dudley was honored in mid-May at a retirement dinner at the school's Student Center. At that time he made the first presentation of the annual Lloyd P. Dudley Award to student Dan Radakovich for outstanding forensic achievement. The Award was begun this year by the speech department at Southern Colorado State in honor of Dudley who had been at the Pueblo school more than 20 years. The former Jacksonville man joined the school staff when it was Pueblo Junior College.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley have a daughter living in the area, Mrs. Wilbur H. Bochs of Bluffs.

SEEK THREE WHO ALLEGEDLY SET FIRES IN ALTON

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Police said they had a few leads but no arrests Monday following a fire which destroyed the huge new Biederman Furniture store on the north end of town.

Police said witnesses reported seeing three young blacks at the store Sunday night when a firebomb was apparently thrown into the building.

It was the fifth night within a week that the city of 44,000 just north of St. Louis, experienced either shooting or fire-bombing incidents. The trouble began a week ago with the arrest of a black youth on a curfew violation, which led to a fight at police headquarters.

Police were checking on the ownership of an abandoned vehicle auto found not far from the store. A five-gallon gasoline can was found near the store.

Police and fire officials would not make any damage estimate and Biederman officials were unavailable for comment. The modern store, with 32,000 square feet of floor space, was in a shopping center. The roof collapsed after the steel supports were twisted by the heat.

The uptown market, in another part of town, was burned out just before the furniture store blaze. Firemen also battled fires involving two autos, a garage and a shed.

Two firefighters were reported to have sustained injuries in connection with the fire.

Former Greene Child Suffocates In Refrigerator

ROODHOUSE — A five year old son of a former Roodhouse couple, Richard Lee Crum, was one of two children found suffocated in a closed refrigerator in a St. Louis apartment building Saturday night.

The child was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crum who were in charge of an apartment house in St. Louis. Richard Lee and a small friend were playing and when missed by his parents a search was instigated. A vacant apartment in the building had been shown to a prospective tenant earlier and the door to the apartment left unlocked. The children evidently entered and climbed in the refrigerator. Both were dead when found at 8 p.m.

The child was born in Jacksonville Aug. 21, 1966, son of Howard R. and Sharlet Diane Ross Crum. Surviving are the parents, two brothers, Jeffery and Bradley and a sister, Jackie, all of St. Louis. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Henderson and Albert Ross, all of Roodhouse and Mrs. Mae Crum of Waverly.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Mackey-Daws Funeral Home in Roodhouse with interment to be in Athensville cemetery.

"ORPHAN ANNIE," part wire-haired female would like to drop the 'orphan' and become some family's Annie. The black and white pooch is a people-lover and very gentle. For information contact PAL (protection of animals league), phone 243-1116 or 243-2625. The League has an assortment of dogs available, all sizes, shapes and colors and about 11 kittens and cats. Three long haired kittens are 'conversation pieces.' The League has adoption forms for recipients and also investigates cruelty to animals reports, contact through the same phone numbers as above.

Goldye B. Angier Rites Wednesday At Virginia

VIRGINIA — Mrs. Goldye Bingham Angier, 78, formerly of Virginia and recently of Springfield, died at 11:35 a.m. Sunday at Memorial hospital in Springfield.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Massie Funeral Home, Rev. Charles Col-lison officiating. Burial will be in Walnut Ridge cemetery. The family will receive friends Tuesday from 6 to 9 p.m. at the funeral home.

She was the widow of Charles Angier and was born Feb. 13, 1894 in Cass county. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. James (Charlene) Frisch of Springfield, one granddaughter, and two great-grandsons.

Everybody lives someplace

And wherever you live, property protection is a mighty important insurance need.

Protection for personal possessions—even if you live in an apartment. For your home, if you own one. And for other buildings, machinery and livestock, if you farm.

Package plans to fit precise needs—for Renters, Homeowners, Farmers—owners—are among the things The Country Companies do best.

The Country Companies. We're a little different than most insurance people.

Westgate Stoplights Closer To Reality; Revise Expense Plan

The Jacksonville city council Monday evening did "their part" in moving toward installation of stop lights at the three-way intersection of West Morton and Westgate Avenues.

The council approved an agreement between the state and city for traffic control devices, set aside up to $8,000 for payment of the city's share, approved plans and specifications, and approved a traffic signal maintenance agreement.

The estimated cost to the city is expected to be in the neighborhood of about $6,400 but that cost could rise to about $7,000 because of the estimate made several months ago. Since that time, material and labor costs have risen.

The city also approved, with emergency clause, an ordinance providing for no parking on the north and south side of West Morton between Massey Lane and the entrance to the Holiday Inn Apartments.

State Bidding
Alderman Jimmie Fernandes, chairman of the municipal services committee, said the state would accept the bids, make the inspections and "run the job" without additional charge to the city. Fernandes told the council he would hand-carry the documents approved by the council to the division of highways "during his noon-hour" to insure that they receive prompt approval.

Fernandes said he was sure the project could be put up for bids within a month or so and that construction would be started within two or three months.

The project calls for additional lanes on both the north and south sides of Morton for about 1,000 feet, complete with left-turn lanes for cross traffic. Estimated cost of the overall project is in the neighborhood of $35,000.

The intersection in question has been rated as one of the most dangerous in the city thus providing for the qualification of state and federal funds for the project.

Confidence At Low Ebb
Alderman Don Votsmier declared that the present system of municipal government is losing the confidence of the public. He went on to state that such things as the "recent trip to Dallas" and "duplicated expense vouchers" has been a contributing factor for the apparent lack of confidence in the present system.

Votsmier said it was time to do something in an effort to restore public confidence in the present system and recommended that future expense vouchers handed in by the mayor and others on city junkets be required to have attached the actual receipt for meals and other items claimed as expenses.

Votsmier said it was not now compulsory to have the actual receipt, but he said it was his intention of having the regulations re-drawn to require it. He received unanimous support from the city council.

Votsmier said he had refused to sign the expense vouchers submitted by the mayor and utilities superintendent until such time as a public accounting or explanation has been made for the duplicated expenses.

There was no comment from Mayor Dan F. Lahey or Utilities Supt. Robert Jameson.

Lahey said he was leaving Tuesday for Des Moines, Iowa, and should have written information for the council by the next meeting on June 26. Lahey was asked, but did not indicate who would accompany him on the journey. He is expected to ask the principal bondholder, Carlton Behr, for additional funds with which to pay for electric department debts.

Alderman Earl Davis, chairman of the electric committee and one of the three who visited Dallas recently, did have some comment concerning the trip. Davis suggested that even though the cost of the trip may have been "pretty high," it was still in the best interests of the city and that they got the jet returned to Jacksonville quickly. He also indicated that the three of them together (Davis, Lahey and Jameson) may have been more impressive to the concern in question and secured more prompt action than if they had sent only one person. Davis said he was "not aware" of what was described as "duplicated expenses."

Receive Rate Study
A rate study for the electric department has been received at city hall and was distributed to members of the council Monday night. Alderman Earl Davis asked that members review the recommendations from the engineers and be ready to take action on the matter within a few weeks.

Davis did not have specific rates for quotation, but indicated that the structure was designed to "put the department on a paying basis." The electric department is currently losing money according to the latest audit figures.

The council approved a resolution between the city and General Telephone for common usage of poles within the city limits. The plan calls for the city to pay General Telephone if their poles are used in a common location and the phone company would pay the city for use of city poles where installation of additional poles would not be in the best interests of safety or geography.

THEFT IN FRANKLIN
Morgan County Deputies were notified of the theft of seventy steel fence posts from the Morgan County Service Co. in Franklin Monday.

DAN WALKER, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, greets a woman in the downtown area here Monday. Walker spent over an hour on the square shaking hands and soliciting the support of passersby.

Walker Campaigns In Jacksonville Monday

Dan Walker made his second campaign tour of Jacksonville Monday. Last summer Walker strode into town during his walking campaign telling anyone that would listen that he was going to buck the Daley Democratic organization and win his party's nomination for the governor's race.

This summer, with the same earnest gaze, he's telling people that he is going to put Richard Ogilvie out of the statehouse. More people are listening this time.

A surprising number of people on the square recognized him as he made the rounds. People waved from cars and pointed as they drove by.

He spent over an hour on the square before visiting a radio station and then making stops at the courthouse. Then, accompanied by his sons Dan Jr. and Charles, he jumped into a red Jeep and drove to Pisgah, Franklin and Waverly.

Speaking at the gate of Anderson Clayton late Monday afternoon, Walker said he received an enthusiastic welcome from people in the smaller towns in the county, people who had never seen a gubernatorial candidate on their streets before.

Walker's campaign emphasis this summer has shifted from attacks on the Daley machine to allegations of massive waste in the Ogilvie administration.

"We're going to have to tighten the belt," he said. "This is the key to restoring confidence in government. We have to keep the lid on spending for four years."

Walker said if he is elected that he would dismantle the patronage system by executive order. He said he would prohibit the solicitation of funds from state workers — the patronage "dues" — stop the practice of making state workers do political work and order that jobs are to be filled on the basis of qualifications.

"That doesn't mean that we can't hire our friends," he said, "but they must be qualified. Illinois is one of the last states still operating on the patronage system," he added.

Walker returned to Jacksonville last night for a meeting with Harry Story, a local lawyer at whose home he stayed last summer during his walking tour.

He will be on the road today with stops planned at Versailles, Mt. Sterling, Beardstown, Virginia and Chandlerville.

Anna Gregory Of Beardstown Dies Sunday

BEARDSTOWN — Mrs. Anna Lucille Gregory, 58, of 603 E. Fifth in Beardstown died at 1 a.m. Sunday at Schmitt Memorial hospital in Beardstown.

She was born Jan. 1, 1914 in Mt. Auburn, the daughter of Albert A. and Isabelle Donathan.

She married Frank Gregory May 14, 1945 at Virginia. He preceded her in death as did her father and one brother. The deceased is survived by her mother; two daughters, Mrs. Sandra Newman and Mrs. Patsy Bauer, both of Beardstown; one brother, James Martin Donathan; one sister, Mrs. Nellie Redfearn of Decatur; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Cline Funeral Home with the Rev. Lottie Morrow of Black Oak church officiating. Burial will be in the Bloomfield cemetery at Bluffs.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Tuesday.

CARS DAMAGED SOUTH OF CITY

Two cars were damaged in an accident at 1:40 p.m. Sunday about two miles south of Jacksonville on U.S. 67.

A car driven by Kenneth E. Butler, 41, of Carrollton slowed for traffic and was struck from the rear by a second northbound vehicle driven by Charles R. Buhlig, 45, of Roodhouse.

Buhlig was ticketed by state police for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. Both vehicles left the scene under their own power.

FIREMEN CALLED

Two city fire trucks rushed to the Morgan County Housing Project at 304 W. Dunlap about 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Driver Found Guilty Monday In Traffic Case

Leonard R. Gregg, 20, of Beardstown was found guilty on a traffic charge of driving too fast for conditions by Judge John B. Wright Monday afternoon and ordered to pay a fine of $15 and $10 court costs.

Gregg was charged by city police June 10 following an incident on the public square.

In other court action, Jack Pilkington, 28, of Waverly was bound over to the next session of the grand jury on a charge of forgery. He was free on $2,500 bond pending further court appearances.

James Miller, 18, of rural Murrayville appeared on charges of robbery, battery and theft but was not asked to enter a plea to the charges. The public defender was appointed in each case and the defendant was returned to the county jail pending further hearings.

Two juveniles involved in theft and auto theft, respectively, were detained for further court hearings in the Morgan county jail.

New Innovation For Air Illinois In The Wings

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Air Illinois, a Carbondale-based airline, Monday announced it has ordered a 48-passenger plane that will be able to operate into and out of Meigs Field in Chicago.

E. R. Dzendolet (cq), president of Air Illinois, said in a statement the jet-prop plane costing $2 million compares to present 18-passenger equipment.

The plane will operate between Meigs Field, Springfield and Carbondale beginning about March 1973, he said. He said present 18-passenger equipment will be retained for service to Cape Girardeau, Mo., Carbondale, St. Louis and Jacksonville.

The plane will be demonstrated Wednesday at Chicago, Carbondale and Springfield, he said.

APPARENT LOW BIDS RECEIVED FOR HIGHWAYS

Apparent low bids totaling more than $42 million for construction and related work on Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's 1972 road program were received Monday by the Department of Transportation.

Transportation Secretary William F. Cellini said the letting was the fourth of eight regularly scheduled for the year.

Area projects and the apparent low bidders were: Brown county, .75 miles of resurfacing and grading of slopes on Illinois Route 107, seven miles south of Mt. Sterling. (Estimated cost $300,000) Freesen, Inc. of Bluffs, $384,144.

Adams - Brown counties — Roads and parking lots improvement in Siloam Springs State Park. (E.C. $116,900) Illinois Valley Asphalt, Inc., of Bluffs, $110,859.

In Fall Off Truck

PITTSFIELD — A Pittsfield teenager was instantly killed Sunday afternoon when he slid from the top of a load of hay being hauled on a two ton truck and the vehicle's dual wheels crushed him to death. The victim was 16 year old Bruce Kattleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kattleman.

Three youths, all of Pittsfield, were riding atop the large mound of hay when the load shifted and Kattleman slid off. The others riding with the victim were Bill Moody and Bill Logan, neither injured in the accident.

The driver of the truck was 25 year old David Lacy, also of Pittsfield.

Pike County coroner Warren Lord will call an inquest at a later date.

Bruce Robert Kattleman was born at Pittsfield Sept. 24, 1955, son of Robert Gene and Norma Anne Gregory Kattleman. In addition to his parents three brothers, Timothy, Edward and Gregory, all at home, survive. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William C. Kattleman, Pittsfield and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gregory, Winchester. His great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gregory of Winchester.

The youth attended Pittsfield High School.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Plattner Funeral Home with Rev. Charles Emmerson officiating. Interment will be in Pittsfield West cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday afternoon and evening. The family will meet friends 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

A Day In The Life Of Mrs. Dan Walker

By M. A. KLINGELE

To look at Mrs. Dan (Roberta) Walker as she sat talking late Monday afternoon, one would not have guessed she had been on the road since 6:30 that morning. As wife of the Democratic gubernatorial nominee for Illinois governor and mother of seven children, Mrs. Walker calmly maintains a schedule which most women would find exhausting. And she seems to thrive on it.

Other stops on the campaign trail Monday found Mrs. Walker, accompanied by the Walkers' 19-year-old daughter, Robbie, in Dwight, Bloomington and Springfield with a Democratic dinner at the Pittsfield American Legion Home at 7 p.m. Yet another stop in Carlinville was scheduled before the end of the day.

Quietly enthusiastic, Mrs. Walker discussed her enjoyment in meeting people when campaigning for her husband. She expressed special interests in Illinois day care centers for working mothers with preschool age children and accommodations for Senior Citizens. When questioned about women's equal rights, Mrs. Walker said, "I definitely believe in equal pay for equal work."

Mrs. Walker, who spoke in a straightforward and sincere manner, also showed she could employ the tact needed to skillfully sidestep certain issues. Asked for her opinion of abortion, an issue which has long "see-sawed" before the courts and Congress, Mrs. Walker replied she was awaiting a ruling by the Supreme Court on the matter.

Robbie, who recently completed her sophomore year at the University of Denver, was just resuming her campaign work. She discussed her past political activities behind the scenes, working at headquarters, stuffing envelopes and ringing doorbells, which Mrs. Walker added was the "backbone of politics".

The question Mrs. Walker is asked most often by women she meets is "how does she manage a home, the campaign and her own private interest?" It does take a certain amount of organization and enjoyment of the work, she replied.

Man Arrested In Pike County For Abduction

PITTSFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Harry F. Tettable, 31, who allegedly abducted a Hannibal woman from her home Sunday and released her Monday, was arrested at Pleasant Hill, a short time after the release, the Pike County sheriff's office reported.

Tettable was picked up and trailed by a Pike County deputy after the woman, Mrs. Connie Kitson, furnished authorities with a description of the car he was driving.

Mrs. Kitson, 20, is separated from her husband, authorities said, and had been working at a Lums restaurant in Hannibal where Tettable previously served as manager.

A former employee at the restaurant said Tettable had dated Mrs. Kitson.

The suspect was being held in the Pike County Jail here pending extradition proceedings.

Police in Hannibal said Tettable entered the home of Elliot R. Hatten, Mrs. Kitson's father, Sunday by breaking glass in the rear door and unlocking it.

Police also reported that Tettable struck Mrs. Kitson with a pistol and it discharged into the ceiling. He then forced her into his car and drove away.

Ron McKenzie, Marion County prosecuting attorney, said he intended to file charges of kidnapping, breaking and entering and felonious assault against Tettable.

Wm. Long Dies In Pittsfield Rites Tuesday

PITTSFIELD — William Hobart Long, 75, died Saturday at the Pittsfield Nursing Center here. He was 75 years of age.

Mr. Long was born in North Calhoun county Sept. 13, 1898, son of Henry Clay and Addie Lock Long. He was a retired farmer, member of the Methodist church and veteran of World War One. He attended business college in Jacksonville.

He was married in 1919 at Pittsfield to Ola Robinson and she survives. A brother, George Long of Pleasant Hill survives. One son preceded the deceased in death.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Pleasant Hill United Methodist church with Rev. Ron Eaker officiating. Interment will be in Crescent Heights cemetery at Pleasant Hill.
